

Royalists Seek Socialist Help To Fight Nazis

Monarchist Leaders in Austria Hope for Agreement

OPPOSITION GROWS

Workers' Guild 'Ready To Erect Barricades' Against Nazis

Vienna—(AP)—A rising tide of opposition swirled through Hitlerized Austria today.

Monarchists, their hopes of empire glimmering, sought to swing socialists behind them to combat Nazi inroads into the nation.

Their leaders met to formulate a working monarchist-socialist agreement.

Members of the fatherland front, Austria's only legal political party, cried out during a conference against statements by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, who lately replied they were there to listen, not to express opinions.

Provisional observations were made by dissatisfied Austrians, mostly individuals finding great unity than ever in the political field, but there did not seem to be much they could do about it.

Exemplifying the bitter undercurrent were speeches that "the people's political representative" and a local monarchist leader gave at an Innsbruck meeting.

Under Great Pressure

A few days ago such expressions would have meant concentration camps.

"We haven't been informed about the Berchtesgaden talk nearly as much as Schuschnigg pretended," they said.

"From our provincial fatherland front leaders we hear Schuschnigg was under great pressure at Berchtesgaden; otherwise it is inconceivable how forces recently described as inimical to the state could get these concessions."

"It seems to us all the experiences of past years have been ignored. Does one think convicts released from concentration camps will ever be good Austrians?"

A few weeks ago it was said illegal agitation was a matter for the executive branch—and now they make a man interior minister (Arthur Seyss-Inquart) who gets his instructions from Berlin.

"By Grace of Hitler"

"It seems to us Seyss-Inquart is the Austrian chancellor by grace of Hitler. As if to show that the administration has abandoned all good, they will now readmit and endorse the Austrian Legion, which was too great a load for Germany."

Workers' guild leaders declared that if Austrian independence were in danger "we are ready to erect barricades against nazism."

In many places one hears Austrians—accustomed since the 1934 putsch, which failed, to "hush, hush" about government affairs—lament loudly their lack of information.

Socialists and Catholics pleaded with Schuschnigg for a voice in the conduct of affairs, and were told that perhaps political societies would be formed to permit them and other groups to express opinions under police supervision.

Austrian Catholics expressed belief they received a severe blow in the Berchtesgaden meeting in which Schuschnigg yielded to Hitler. Schuschnigg, they said, himself a Catholic, should have intervened on behalf of German Catholics, at odds with the Nazi regime.

Now in Berlin

They asserted the government contravened the Austrian constitution, which affirms that Austria is a Christian country.

German sources here said that Arthur Seyss-Inquart, the Hitler-endorsed minister of the interior now in Berlin for consultation with Nazi leaders, henceforth would be regarded as the "guaranteed" of the nationalist group in Austria. Seyss-Inquart was expected to return from Berlin today.

Economic Unity With Austria Is Goal of Fuehrer

Nazis Predict Monetary Agreement Between Two Nations

Berlin—(AP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler was pictured by Nazi spokesmen today as determined to bring about economic union of Germany and Austria, realizing a German ambition thwarted by Britain and France in 1931.

As bloodless nazification of Austria proceeded, Europe's chancelleries were given to understand that the time had passed when other powers could sit in judgment on agreements between German states. Seven years ago Britain and France, through the League of Nations, kept Austria and Germany from forming a customs union.

The Nazi spokesmen predicted a monetary union between the two countries to synchronize banking and currencies. A customs union was taken for granted. Hitler, they said, would first and foremost create Austrian unemployment by a vast public works program.

Strive For Unity

There will be numerous conferences between Austrian and German leaders in the near future, with all efforts centered on making the two countries march in unison, a government spokesman said.

Nazis learning the full import of talks between Hitler and Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Hitler-approved Austrian leader, expressed belief they received a severe blow in the Berchtesgaden meeting in which Schuschnigg yielded to Hitler. Schuschnigg, they said, himself a Catholic, should have intervened on behalf of German Catholics, at odds with the Nazi regime.

Mary O'Connor Is Found Not Guilty

Acquitted of All Charges In Death of Child Last Labor Day

Philadelphia—(AP)—Mary O'Connor was acquitted today of all charges in the "mud puddle" death of 5-year-old Nancy Glenn last Labor day. The 19-year-old girl athlete had been charged with murder, voluntary manslaughter and involuntary manslaughter.

A cheer went up in the courtroom as the foreman of the jury of nine men and three women announced the verdict.

Mary and her mother had set tensely nearly 20 minutes after they learned that the jury was ready to report—until assistant District Attorney Charles C. Gordon could be found and brought in for the verdict.

Debate on Tax Bill May Open Soon in House

Agreement Reached to Modify Levy on Family Corporations

SENATE IN RECESS

House Naval Committee Approaching End on Hearings

Washington—(AP)—An agreement to modify a projected levy on family or closely-held corporations enabled house leaders today to consider debating the tax revision program in 10 days.

First, the measure must be approved by the house ways and means committee, whose Democratic members had been split over the new levy. Republican committee-men had their first chance to see the bill this morning.

The proposal to tax closely-held companies (firms owned by a few individuals) is aimed at penalizing any which might be used for tax avoidance.

Increase Exemption

The original bill exempted corporations having incomes up to $50,000, but after a long dispute, the Democratic committee-men voted to increase the exemption to $75,000.

The tax revision measure also provides for substantial modification of the levies on capital gains and undistributed corporate profits.

The house naval committee was approaching the end of hearings. While the senate began a week-end recess after 29 days of filibustering over the anti-lynching legislation, the house advanced its meeting time an hour in an attempt to assure passage before nightfall of the fifth regular appropriation bill.

The legislation would provide $130,000,000 to finance the state, commerce, labor and justice departments for the year starting July 1.

Senate Leader Barkley indicated the anti-lynching bill would be laid aside Monday so that the $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation could be debated.

When the relief bill is passed and the anti-lynching measure definitely sidetracked, the senate is expected to take up the government reorganization bill.

One Dies, Seven Escape Flood in Anthracite Mine

Miners Rescued After Being Imprisoned for 18 Hours

Hazleton, Pa.—(AP)—After an all-night struggle by fellow miners in mud, water and debris, seven of eight men trapped in the rush of water in the Lehigh Valley company anthracite mine at Jeannetteville were rescued at dawn today.

The eighth man, Paul Kuritz, of Hazleton, was found dead, his body buried in mud. Kuritz died because he ran in the wrong direction when the flood waters from an old mine operation rushed upon the men.

The rescued men were brought to the surface an hour and a half after they were found in a "cock hole" above the reach of the water.

All said they were uninjured. Two of them, although protesting they "felt fine" were taken to a hospital for observation.

The rescued walked out amid the cheers and shouted greetings of wives, children and others who spent an anxious night about the mine mouth.

Rescued Body

But there was silence when the body of Kuritz was carried from the dark workings and placed in an ambulance.

The seven men rescued were Michael Oleks, Hazleton; Joseph Fildishin, Stephen Sifranko, and John Lavarski, all of Jeannetteville.

Open Test Case on State Aid Funds

Action to Determine if WDA Decision Bars Payments

Madison—(AP)—Summons were served today on Secretary of State Theodore Dammann and Treasurer Samuel L. Loomis, in the first test case to determine whether the supreme court's decision in the Wisconsin Development authority dispute bars payment of state aid to other private corporations.

The test case was instituted in Dane county circuit court by the Sawyer County Agricultural society, which asks that the two officials be compelled to pay its claim of $136.20 from a legislative appropriation for aid to the 1937 Sawyer county fair.

Dammann and Loomis were ordered by Judge A. C. Hoppmann to show cause Feb. 25 why the society's petition should not be allowed.

Dammann announced he would hold up all appropriations to county fairs, veterans organizations and other private groups after the supreme court ruled that a $100,000 appropriation to the Wisconsin Development authority was illegal. The WDA was a state-sponsored, private corporation to promote public ownership of utilities.

State officials had contemplated bringing a test case on other appropriations but withheld action until the high court rules on the request by the attorney general for re-hearing of the WDA matter. The court now has the application for rehearing under advisement.

Find Hospital Inmate Victim of Accident

Oshkosh—(AP)—A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury which yesterday investigated the death at Winnebago State hospital of John Todd, 75. The jury took but 15 minutes to decide Todd had fractured his skull in a fall at the home of Mrs. Anna Miller of the town of Homestead, Florence county.

Mrs. Miller, caretaker for Florence county's aged and infirm persons, testified Todd had fallen Friday and again Monday. The fall Monday was fatal, the jury decided. Other witnesses were Sheriff Anthony Grell and Coroner Harold Peters of Florence county.

Thief Seizes $60,000 Worth of Securities

New York—(AP)—Detectives had only a sketchy description of "a stranger" to help them today in a search for a thief who snatched a brief case containing $60,000 worth of securities from a table in a Wall Street brokers' office.

The brief case was taken yesterday while Richard Deegan, 28-year-old broker's messenger, turned from the table to hand a batch of securities to the cashier at the T. L. Watson and Company office.

21 Killed and Over 60 Hurt In Louisiana

Heavy Property Damage In Wake of Tornado in Oil Boom Town

CHECK CASUALTIES

Many Buildings are Levelled as Storm Strikes Industrial Area

Rodessa, La.—(AP)—A crackling, roaring tornado that dipped into the industrial section of this north Louisiana oil boom town last night brought death to at least 21 persons, injured three score and caused damage variously estimated between $250,000 and $400,000.

An accurate check of the dead and injured had to await the restoration of order here and reports from Shreveport, Vivian, La., and Atlanta, Texas, where many of the victims were taken.

Ten bodies were counted in morgues at Atlanta. Six others lay in Shreveport and at least two were in an improvised morgue in a grocery store here.

Drs. George E. Morrison and Charles Holt, who directed treatment of the injured here, agreed the death list might run up to 25 and the injured above 60. Together they treated more than a score in their offices, eight of whom died.

Roared Like Train

The storm struck at 9:42 p. m. The hands of a big electric clock in the path of the twister stopped at that time. It blew in from the north and roared like a freight train, witnesses said.

For two minutes it swirled along Supply street, leveling practically every structure in a block and a half square area. Small frame houses collapsed like cracker boxes, tumbling in on their occupants. Larger business houses swayed and fell under the terrific blow, filling the air with huge splinters, tree limbs and other debris.

The power system failed, throwing the town into darkness and adding to the confusion.

Oil Unleashed

Communication and power lines snapped, cracked and dangled dangerously throughout the area. Oil derricks toppled. One fell across a highway, blocking traffic. An

Disabled Vessel Is Not in Danger

Coast Guard Cutter Recalled After Being Ordered to Help Ship

Boston—(AP)—A radiogram from the disabled steamer Azalea City that she was in no immediate danger today allayed fears for the safety of the vessel and 51 persons aboard after the coast guard cutter Tahoe had been ordered off ice patrol to her assistance.

Coast guard officials directed the Tahoe to return.

The Azalea City, a 5,388 ton vessel, owned by the Waterman Steamship company of Mobile, Ala., earlier wireless her propeller was gone and that she was in need of immediate assistance.

The Tahoe, on ice patrol, was the only coast guard boat in the vicinity.

The vessel, formerly the Excelsior of the American Export Line, was built in 1920 for the United States Shipping board. It was then the Waterbury.

The Azalea City operates between Gulf ports and Europe. Coast guard headquarters at Boston said the Tahoe, on ice patrol, was 300 miles away when she received the distress call and probably would not reach the ship before tonight.

Wright Still Facing Tests by Aliens

Los Angeles—(AP)—One hurdle still barred the road to freedom today for Paul A. Wright, "unconscious" slayer of his wife and friend, John Kimmel.

Before he can be released, four alienists must examine Wright at the county psychopathic ward and report at the lunacy commission hearing Monday whether he is sane.

Both the examination and hearing are regarded as mere formalities.

Convicted on two manslaughter counts last Saturday, the aviation executive was saved from a possible 20-year prison term when the same jury decided Wednesday he was temporarily insane at the time of the double killing Nov. 9.

Investigate Mailing of Cartridge in Michigan

Detroit—(AP)—Postal inspectors and Highland Park police today continued an investigation of the mailing of a cartridge to an official of the suburb who had been an opponent of the Black Legion.

Harry A. Smith, chairman of the Highland Park Civil Service commission, notified officials that an envelope, addressed to him and postmarked in Detroit, was delivered to his residence and contained a .38-caliber automatic pistol cartridge with a copper jacket.

Army Planes Land At Buenos Aires In Record Flight

Engines Perform Faultlessly During 5,200-Mile Journey

Buenos Aires—(AP)—Five "flying fortresses" of the United States army landed shortly after 10 a. m., central standard time, today on El Palomar military air base, near Buenos Aires, after a record-breaking one-stop flight from Miami, Fla.

They covered approximately 5,200 miles in less than a day and a half. The first plane was down at 10:08 and the others followed, the fifth landing at 10:25.

The planes approached El Palomar military air base with their 20 engines—four on each of the "flying fortresses"—performing excellently.

They completed the 2,500-mile Lima-Buenos Aires leg in a little more than 12 hours. The first plane swept down to a graceful landing on El Palomar field one minute after the squadron flew over the city.

The planes, which escorted the army planes which escorted the visitors to the landing field and the drone of other welcoming aircraft provided a thundering reception for the good will squadron.

A crowd of eager sightseers and official representatives of the United States and Argentina were at the field to greet the fliers. The fliers came off to take part in a grandiose ceremony Sunday for President-elect Roberto M. Ortiz.

The bombers' crossing of the snow-capped Andes mountains Sunday at an altitude of some 20,000 feet, three hours before was the first for planes of such size.

The sixth plane of the original squadron which yesterday flew non-stop from Miami, Fla., to Lima, Peru, 2,695 miles in 15 hours and 40 minutes was following the others from the Peruvian capital.

It had been held up at Lima by propeller trouble. Adjustments were quickly made, however, and Major J. V. Meloy, its commander, was able to take off at 6:20 a. m., seven hours and 20 minutes after departure of the other five.

Refuse to Name Counsel For Mrs. Lester's Plea

Madison—(AP)—The supreme court today refused to appoint counsel for the appeal of Mrs. Leah Lester, following the appeal of her husband, a 14-1/2 year sentence at Taycheedah on a charge of slaying her husband.

Chief Justice Marvin Rosenberry ruled that Circuit Judge Henry A. Delling, who presided at the trial following the tavern shooting Feb. 14, 1937, must decide whether the state should appoint an attorney to represent Mrs. Lester in arguments before the supreme court.

The application was opposed before the high court today by District Attorney John Cashman of Manitowish county. He contended the supreme court did not have jurisdiction.

Attorney Gerald F. Clifford, of Green Bay, who represented Mrs. Lester in the lower court, told the justices she did not have the money needed to appeal the conviction on a charge of second degree murder.

Only Three Persons at Henry Von Nobel Funeral

Marquette—(AP)—Funeral services were conducted yesterday for Henry Von Nobel, self-styled German count who shot and killed his third wife and himself in a hotel lobby here last night.

Only three persons attended the rites—a clergyman, the funeral director, and his assistant. The body was placed in a mausoleum.

The single floral piece in evidence was a spray of lilies from Agatha Von Nobel, 11-year-old daughter of Von Nobel's divorced second wife.

The shooting occurred last Tuesday 20 minutes before a court hearing was scheduled in the slain woman's divorce suit against Von Nobel.

Mrs. Laona Wolf, brother-in-law of Von Nobel, struck in the jaw by a bullet, was reported in a "fairly good" condition at a Milwaukee hospital.

The steamer carried passengers as well as freight. She was on her way from Oran, Algeria, to Port Vendres, France. The message gave her position as off Figueras, French government city near the Spanish border.

"A shell has fallen 150 meters (165 yards) in front of us," said the master, picked up by Marseille radio. "We are being followed by a Spanish squadron." The shell apparently came from behind.

Roosevelt Statement Brings New Selling

New York—(AP)—Leading stocks and commodities recited under a selling outburst, steadied and then sagged again in late trading today following President Roosevelt's elaboration of administration views on prices. A rally had carried over from the preceding session into early dealings.

Morning gains were replaced by losses ranging to more than $2 in numerous shares, particularly in industrial groups which had rallied in the preceding session while traders were looking forward to the price statement.

Wheat closed off more than a cent a bushel. Most of the government forces left dead, the insurgents said, were "north Europeans or perhaps Americans." They said they found passports with such names as "Smith" and "Johnson."

Lorenz and Dwyer Confess Murder In Second Degree

Await Sentencing for Slaying Switchman in Train Holdup Attempt

Las Cruces, N. M.—(AP)—Henry Lorenz and Harry Dwyer will—in their own words—"face the music" in district court here tomorrow or Monday for the slaying of a switchman in a "wild west" train robbery Thanksgiving day.

The youths will be called before Judge Numa Frenger for sentencing on their pleas of guilty to charges of second degree murder. They face a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

The state withdrew charges of first degree murder and armed train robbery, both punishable by death, in a surprise conference in Judge Frenger's office yesterday, and allowed Lorenz, 22, of Mantolowoc, Wis., and Dwyer, 27, of Brooklyn, to admit their guilt on the lesser charge.

"I think it was the best move under the circumstances," said J. Benson Novell, Lorenz's attorney, explaining the families of the young men would be spared expense they could not afford.

Bravado Is Gone

Both were solemn as they emerged from the judge's chamber. Gone was the spirit of bravado which carried them through their fantastic attempt to rob passengers of the Southern Pacific Apache and the melee which ended in the fatal shooting of W. L. Smith, El Paso switchman.

Lorenz's father, Conran Lorenz of Maywood, Ill., and his sister, Margaret, of Milwaukee, took the turn of events calmly.

They had come here for the trial, certain Henry was "not a bad boy."

Miss Lorenz, a tall blond, walked from the conference without comment. The father is unable to speak English.

From an El Paso sickroom, Smith's pretty, red-haired widow had expressed hope Lorenz and Dwyer would "get the death penalty."

"They took all I have," sobbed Mrs. Lily Smith. "They took all my heart and livelihood. I have nothing to live for now."

Lorenz's father and sister visited her shortly after they arrived here for the trial.

Sinsiang Falls To Japanese in Drive on Railway

Last Important Chinese Peiping-Hankow Stronghold in Area

Shanghai — Japanese troops were reported to have fought through a 20-mile zone of heavy fortifications and captured Sinsiang, last important Chinese Peiping-Hankow railway stronghold north of the Yellow river.

Two living columns, Japanese said, pressed westward from Sinsiang along a branch of the railway in pursuit of retreating Chinese.

News of the Japanese advance on the northwestern corner of the Lungshai corridor separating Japanese-conquered areas of north and central China came as foreign sources asserted the Japanese high command was being changed.

Report General Recalled

General Wane Matsui, who came out of retirement last August to take command of all Japanese forces in the Shanghai area, was said to have been recalled to Japan.

General Shunroku Hata, inspector general of military education in Japan, was reported arriving to succeed him.

The Sinsiang detachment still had 4 miles to go to reach its main objective, Chengchow, junction of the Lungshai and Peiping-Hankow railways south of the river.

In the ten days since Japan's grand campaign for capture of the Lungshai area got under way on all fronts, the northwestern columns pushing south toward Chengchow and Kaifeng have had the most success.

Advance 25 Miles

In the area north of Nanking, Japanese driving north toward Su-chow have advanced 25 miles after costly crossing of the Hwai river at Pengpu. Japanese north of Su-chow in southern Shantung province, however, have been unable to break through Chinese defenses.

A Japanese detachment at Tsining has been partially surrounded.

Both factions credited their air forces with destructive bombardment of enemy positions. Japanese bombers operating in the Lungshai area and Chinese south of Shanghai in the Hangchow zone.

Fifty Chinese crossed the Whang-poo river from Japanese-controlled Pootung, opposite Shanghai, and raided a foreign warehouse in the Japanese section of the International settlement. Police captured 17.

take place in and must be mainly confined to classes of commodities whose prices are too low."

Against Wild Speculation

"These include," the report said, "most of those raw materials and finished products which are produced and sold under highly competitive conditions. Such rise must not be so sharp, or continue so long, as to lead a repetition of the unhealthy speculative conditions of a year ago."

"That sharp rise in prices encouraged speculative inventory buying and, combined with the decline in housing construction, laid much of the ground for the present recession. We must do everything we can to prevent this from happening again."

"Our program seeks a balanced system of prices such as will promote a balanced expansion in production. Our goal is a constantly increasing production and employment. This is the way to increase the real income of consumers."

Answers Questions

After reading the statement to more than 100 newspaper men, the president, with charts and pointer, explained it and then anticipated a series of questions and answered them.

To a question how his advocacy now for higher prices could be reconciled with what he said last April he responded that was like blaming a man who warned you to go slow at a curve if the car runs off the road.

The president added that all agreed that price dislocation was one of the major causes of the recession. He said speculative buying was being developed in the latter part of 1935 and early 1937 when he warned that some prices were going too high. He said the only question in his mind was whether he had issued his warning too late.

The president, who will leave tonight for a short visit to Hyde Park, N. Y., discussed the price situation last yesterday with 14 cabinet members and economic advisers.

His callers said afterward that the sharply divergent courses of different commodity prices were stressed. The labor statistics bureau's index of wholesale commodity prices, whose average is about 80 per cent of the 1926 "normal" level, shows an index for farm products, for instance, of 70, and for metals of 96.

power of the large rural population.

The industrial relations committee of Secretary Roper's business advisory council proposed to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday that the Wagner labor act be amended to impose "corresponding responsibilities" on labor and employers.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) commented that "labor itself has a great deal to gain in making the board more judicial in its nature."

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the senate labor committee said he was opposed to any attempt to amend the act at this time because "the experimental stage has not progressed far enough to determine what amendments are needed."

Economic Unity With Austria Is Goal of Fuehrer

trian minister of the interior, jubilantly predicted Austria would become "another Danzig" before many weeks are over.

That free city, made politically independent by the League of Nations in 1920, has seen all opposition to its nazi regime officially dissolved and has heard predictions of its nazi leader that the third Reich flag would be the Danzig state flag.

During the day, the Fuehrer briefly switched his attention from Austria to automobiles and prepared to open Germany's annual motor show. Far more fascinating to the general public than any of the new models displayed were indications that Hitler's nazi steam roller was operating at full speed down the Austrian Alps.

Example of Strategy

A vivid reminder of this was the presence of Seys-Inquart, who was expected to return to Vienna today. Nazification of Austria provided a concrete example of Hitler's well-tested strategy: capture the ministry of the interior and you capture the state.

This move worked when the state of Thuringia went nazi three years before the rest of Germany. It worked even better in the case of Prussia, and optimistic nazis predicted it would work to perfection in Austria.

They point out that Seys-Inquart would have the friendly cooperation of Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police and creator of one of the smoothest operating public security machines the world ever has known.

As for his talks with Himmler, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, and Field Marshal General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Seys-Inquart had a four-hour conference with Hitler on the serious aspects of his new tasks.

He also had the opportunity, late last night, of learning something of the lighter side of Hitler's organizing genius.

At the Fuehrer's chancellery, guests from all over Germany—including some of the most important party chiefs and some of the wealthiest industrialists—gathered to enjoy with the Fuehrer an evening of music.

By way of emphasizing their enjoyment they all contributed something toward the winter relief fund. The contributions added up to 1,050,600 marks, about $420,000.

As yet unverified was the report that one of Seys-Inquart's first jobs on returning to Austria would be preparation of a plebiscite similar to those frequently held by Hitler in past years.

This report was that such a plebiscite would give Austrians an opportunity to vote yes or no on some such question as: Do you approve of the German Reich?

Ardent nazis here predicted the vote would be overwhelmingly "yes."

FATHER HUGS WRIGHT AFTER INSANITY VERDICT

Dr. J. J. Wright, father of Paul Wright, hugged and kissed his son in Los Angeles when the jury which had convicted the airport executive of manslaughter for killing his wife and John Kimmel, returned a second verdict that he was insane at the time of the shootings. press, federal banking system and state industries be reduced to a minimum.

The prospect of speeded up industry under German direction emerged today as the likely, practical demonstration of national socialism's entry into Austria.

It met at once a thinly-veiled opposition from some businessmen, who feared there would result an unfavorable trade condition and currency depreciation.

Prominent leaders of the former powerful Catholic and socialist parties protested to Chancellor Schuschnigg, urging a revival of parliamentary, democratic party government.

Expect Goering Visit

Newspapers reported Germany's Field Marshal General Hermann Wilhelm Goering would come to Vienna next month to meet Austrian government and industrial leaders.

This gave rise to reports plans then would be drawn to press Austria's industry into the machinery of Germany's four-year plan—a plan for assuring to Germany raw materials from her own sources, without the necessity of depending on foreign supplies.

The agreement, in effect marking nazism's longest definite step across the German frontier, was reached by Austria's Chancellor Schuschnigg and Germany's Fuehrer Hitler in a momentous conference last Saturday.

On the political side, it already had brought into the Austrian cabinet for the first time five men sympathetic to nazism, although the party has been outlawed in Austria since 1934. There have been indications the new Pangerman experiment also would include economic and perhaps military cooperation.

Olexa and Molnar were the two men taken to the hospital. Both showed the effects of the long wait. Broad smiles lighted the faces of the seven. Not one admitted he feared for his life during the 18-hour imprisonment.

"We felt sure we would be released," was the typical comment. "And this," he contended, "for the alleged purpose of preserving a waterway that handled a maximum vessel tonnage in 1935 of 1,361,280 tons and in 1936 of 1,537,775 tons."

Mayor Daniel Hoan, Milwaukee, president of the Great Lakes harbor commission, branded the diversion "a water steal" and said any pretense the water was needed for sanitation purposes "is a flim-flam argument."

The chief proponent of this bill as far as loud noises go is Big Bill Thompson (William Hale Thompson, former Chicago mayor) who probably wants to stage a comeback," said Hoan.

"If navigation is behind the Parsons bill, it would be honestly done. We are against it because the navigation claim is not sincere; sanitation arguments are a sham; we don't want congress to set a precedent, and the bill is a mandatory order on the secretary of war."

Hoan charged Illinois had applications pending for power rights on the Illinois river and that "two private companies are now battling for those power rights."

No other storms were reported within a wide area.

Rodessa is an unincorporated town which sprang up three or four years ago in connection with the discovery of the vast Rodessa oil field which extends through northwest Louisiana and northeast Texas.

Its population was estimated at approximately 2,000. The town is 42 miles northwest of Shreveport in the tip of Caddo Parish (county) where the Arkansas, Texas and Louisiana state lines converge.

Water Diversion Issues Unchanged, Committee Told

Duluth Mayor Says They 'Remain Same' as in His Childhood

Washington — Mayor C. R. Berghult of Duluth, Minn., asserted today the issues of Chicago's water diversion at Lake Michigan "remain the same" as when he was a five-grade pupil.

Berghult, 32, carried on before the house rivers and harbors committee the opposition to a bill to permit Chicago to continue diversion at the rate of 5,000 cubic feet of water a second.

The slim, blond, and mustached mayor the youngest of any city of over 100,000, said "it is regrettable congress and this committee should be further burdened by this matter when the supreme court has left the door open to Chicago for relief if its needs could be substantiated."

Cites Old Resolution

Citing a resolution adopted by the Duluth city council 25 years ago protesting to the secretary of war against the Chicago diversion, Berghult said:

"Experience during the 25 years since then has, in a practical way, proven the truth of the contentions set forth by opponents to the diversion that 'this would vitally affect the interests of Duluth and the development of every commercial center on the Great Lakes system.'"

"These contentions have been further substantiated by findings of the highest court of our land. Our attitude today should not be considered as one antagonistic toward Chicago. Rather, let it be made clear ours is a struggle for self-preservation."

"All evidence which we can accumulate indicates the continuing damage to navigation on Lake Superior alone which has been done and which this bill proposes to extend and increase, will be greater by far than all the hoped for gain to navigation in the state of Illinois," Berghult said.

Would Reduce Traffic

Fred Keiser, Duluth traffic commissioner, told the committee yesterday passage of the Parsons bill would reduce Great Lakes traffic 4,000,000 tons a year.

"And this," he contended, "for the alleged purpose of preserving a waterway that handled a maximum vessel tonnage in 1935 of 1,361,280 tons and in 1936 of 1,537,775 tons."

Mayor Daniel Hoan, Milwaukee, president of the Great Lakes harbor commission, branded the diversion "a water steal" and said any pretense the water was needed for sanitation purposes "is a flim-flam argument."

The chief proponent of this bill as far as loud noises go is Big Bill Thompson (William Hale Thompson, former Chicago mayor) who probably wants to stage a comeback," said Hoan.

"If navigation is behind the Parsons bill, it would be honestly done. We are against it because the navigation claim is not sincere; sanitation arguments are a sham; we don't want congress to set a precedent, and the bill is a mandatory order on the secretary of war."

Hoan charged Illinois had applications pending for power rights on the Illinois river and that "two private companies are now battling for those power rights."

other, uprooted and carried from the well, permitted oil to blow wild.

Volunteers rushed to the stricken area carrying lanterns, flashlights and torches. They dug into the wreckage blindly, guided in some instances by the cries of those trapped under the demolished houses.

Trucks from the oil fields were rushed in and quickly converted into ambulances. Some were used to drag portions of fallen walls and heavy timbers from the victims.

Within less than 30 minutes after the storm hit aid arrived from Shreveport, Vivian and Atlanta. Lack of facilities here prompted the transfer of the dead and injured to the neighboring towns.

Formulate Wage and Hour Code for U. W. Students

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Labor problems, which have provided the nation's front pages with some of their biggest news stories in the last few years, have invaded the college campus, it was revealed here this week, when students at the University of Wisconsin announced provisions of a wages and hours code for student restaurant employees who are following a time-honored practice in "working their way through college."

Aimed at bettering student wages and working conditions more than half of the state school's 10,000 students have part-time work—the code is the result of a campaign by liberal students which burst into full bloom a few months ago with sensational charges by the Daily Cardinal, student owned, student edited campus newspaper.

Student wage scales in the code, now under consideration by a representative student council, declare for a 35 cent an hour minimum, and 21 hours of work for three meals daily. The overtime rate was set at 40 cents an hour.

The code also provides for tenure, arbitration of disputes by a board consisting of a student representative, a representative of the restaurant employers and a person to be named by the state labor relations board.

It is believed the student code is the first of its kind in the country. John Frank, Appleton senior at the university, has been prominently associated with the activity precipitated since the first excitement over poor student working conditions.

Garden Clubs to Sponsor Contest

Announce Third Annual School Forest Competition in State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The third annual school forest contest, in which any school in Wisconsin is eligible to participate, has been announced by the Wisconsin Garden Club Federation, and now is underway under the direction of Mrs. F. Quimby of Racine, conservation chairman of the federation.

The forest contest, which is the first of its kind in America is attracting nation-wide attention in conservation circles, is supported by local garden clubs throughout the state, which have been asked to enroll their local schools in the project.

To date more than 200,000 young pine trees have been planted on the 1200 acre plantation in northern Wisconsin which has been reserved by the federal forest service for reforestation by Wisconsin school children.

Local garden clubs have been asked to appoint special committees to visit each school in their cities or counties to instruct school children and their teachers in the project and its objectives. Complete information is available at the state office of the federal forest service in Milwaukee, according to Mrs. Quimby.

School forest programs in Wisconsin have also been undertaken locally by youth groups with the cooperation of the state conservation department and the state extension service, with conspicuous success in recent years. In many instances counties have given over tax delinquent lands, or county owned lands, to schools for forestry purposes.

Seek to Check Phil With Majority in State Legislature

Lawmakers Plan Campaign To Gain Anti-LaFollette Strength

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Working quietly and with a minimum of publicity, a Republican-Democratic coalition committee of state legislators is preparing to enter the 1938 campaign in an effort to return an anti-LaFollette majority to both houses for the 1939 sessions, it was revealed here today.

While not opposing the citizens coalition group which was organized at Madison and Stevens Point conferences this winter, and which will frame a slate of candidates for state offices, the legislative group is going its own way independently, convinced that the simplest and easiest way to wrest control of the state government from the LaFollette organization is through control of the state legislature.

Members of the executive committee of the legislative coalition, which is now laying the groundwork for its campaign plans, are Assemblyman Mark Catlin of Appleton, Vernon Thomson of Richland Center, Republicans, Maurice Fitzsimmons of Fond du Lac and J. T. Cavanaugh of Antigo, Democrats, Senator Harry Bolens, Fort Washington Democrat, and Senator E. H. Roethe, Republican from Fenimore.

The legislative committee is an outgrowth of the conservative coalition of legislative Democrats and Republicans who formed a solid minority opposition to the LaFollette legislative program during the regular and extra sessions in 1937. The well-knit majority of the Progressive administration, which forced through passage an exceptionally broad program in a few weeks in the special session, precipitated the coalition.

Map Joint Support
Unconcerned about state offices, the group will attempt through county and local Republican and Democratic committees to form agreements to return incumbent Democrats or Republican senators or assemblymen, and in those districts in which Progressives are now sitting, to agree upon a single Republican or Democratic candidate who will get joint support of the conservatives.

In direct contrast is the regular state coalition organization, headed by James Kervin of Milwaukee, which is ignoring the legislative problem in favor of getting a statewide support for a coalition state of five offices, from governor through state treasurer.
For example, according to the legislative group's plans, Assemblyman William Rohan of Outagamie county and Henry Huphuf of Calumet county, both of Milwaukee, will try to get an anti-LaFollette Republican and Democratic support for reelection. So should Assemblymen Sweeney and Lytle in Brown county, Catlin of Outagamie county, and Yindra of Manitowish county. But in Waupaca county, where Assemblyman A. A. Handrich, Progressive, now holds office, and others similarly represented by Progressives, the coalition committee will try to get endorsement of a coalition candidate by both the Republican and Democratic county committees.

Children, Visiting Priests at Hospital. Enjoy Elevator Ride

When six school children of the Combined Locks state graded school came to St. Elizabeth hospital Thursday to visit the Rev. John De Wild, pastor of St. Paul Catholic church at Combined Locks, who is recovering there following an operation, the priest turned the tables on them and instead of the youngsters entertaining him, he took them on a tour of inspection of the hospital.

Some of the group who had never ridden in an elevator enjoyed that experience, and they all got a first-hand glimpse of the workings of a modern hospital. The six youngsters, representing the rest of their school mates at Combined Locks, brought Father De Wild a huge basket of gifts including flowers, food and a purse. The delegation included Alice Coenraad, Anna Van Geffen, Gretchen Lom, Harold Schunacher, Bobbie De Coster and Billy Van Zeeland.

Father De Wild is able to walk around the hospital and is expected to return home soon.

Oppose Shift of Supervision for Normal Schools

Governor's Proposal Revives 10 Year Old Problem in State

Madison — P. — The state government reorganization committee approved four proposals by Governor LaFollette today, including creation of a new department of social adjustment and transfer of the supervision of 29 county normal schools from the department of public instruction to the state normal regents.

Vigorous opposition to the normal school plan, voiced at a hearing yesterday by county officials and legislators, disappeared today with further discussion of the proposal.

Governor LaFollette declared that bringing all the normal schools under the board which now administers the state teachers colleges would eliminate friction between the training units.

The reorganization committee approved this and other proposals in executive session after the hearing adjourned.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — A seemingly innocuous proposal by Governor LaFollette to transfer the state's supervision of 29 county normal schools from the department of public instruction, headed by John Callahan, to the state board of normal school regents, yesterday provided the first organized opposition to the governor's capitol house cleaning program and incidentally brought up once more a ten year old problem, the integration of the state's gigantic public education system.

For seven hours yesterday the governor argued earnestly with county normal school men who with a single voice declared against his desire to switch the supervision of their institutions—supported 80 per cent by state aids—as a step toward the integration of the state's teacher training system.

The all day sessions of Governor LaFollette's interim committee on state government reorganization yesterday produced two significant developments: first it inspired the first overt opposition to the executive's plans; second it brought into the open the governor's first proposal to organize a new state department under his reorganization plan.

Prior to Thursday, the governor has contented himself with reshuffling existing state personnel and machinery; yesterday he laid before his friendly reorganization committee a proposal to shear from existing departments social welfare services, such as child welfare, pensions, and state relief administration, and to consolidate them into a brand new state department of public welfare or social security—as yet unnamed—with a full time administrator and a part time policy making board of directors.

Hearing Room Jammed

High point of the discussions yesterday, however, was the presence of more citizens and local officials than have yet appeared before the committee, overflowing the largest hearing room in the capitol, and proving that the governor's far-reaching program of governmental modernization has caught the public eye.

Indirectly it brought to the fore once more that generation-old proposal, a single state department of education to embrace all of the state's public schools, from the state university down through the humblest one room schoolhouse in the northwoods.

The governor took great pains to explain his idea, in half hour speeches at frequent intervals, indicated that the mechanics of public instruction in the state looks like a problem which the present administration intends soon to tackle.

Charge Interference

The specific change proposed by the governor yesterday, the jurisdiction of county teacher training schools, was viewed by two score county school men, county supervisors and legislators, however, as an interference in local affairs by the state government.

The county normals are local institutions, they argued, and now are properly handled by the state department of public instruction which has dealt with them successfully for 35 years. The normal school regents, they held, are city men, prejudiced in favor of the teachers colleges and their own urban interests.

Significantly, two of the governor's Progressive legislative allies, Felix Kremer of Phillips and J. D. Mullar of Menomonie, opposed the measure. Kremer insisted that the proposal be submitted in a referendum to the people, to be voted upon in the fall elections.

Governor LaFollette during the course of the warm debate disclosed that he has appointed a special investigating committee consisting of representatives of the rural, city, county normal, state teachers colleges, and the state university to study the whole field of public education in the state with a view to recommending integration and consolidation.

Dr. Townsend on His Way to Jail

Expects to Write Book About His Life While Serving Sentence

Los Angeles — P. — Dr. Francis E. Townsend, 71, gray-haired, bespectacled old age pension leader, was on his way by train today to Washington, D. C., to serve a jail term for contempt.

The Long Beach physician, who was sent out on the Bell congressional committee which was questioning him on how his $200-a-month pension campaign was financed, left last night amid cheers of several hundred followers.

In jail, Dr. Townsend plans to finish writing a book about his life and his philosophy, telling how far the world has come and giving his prophecy on where it is going—"if they don't muzzle me."

The pension champion was sentenced in March, 1937, to serve 30 days in jail and pay a fine of $100 for contempt of the house committee. He appealed, but a District of Columbia court upheld the conviction. Dr. Townsend said he would refuse to pay the fine, and I suppose that will mean more time in jail.

Mrs. Townsend did not accompany her husband.

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

On Paying the Piper and Really Getting the Tune

Congress is about to consider bills to carry out the plan for reorganizing the executive branch of the government. It will be remembered that the proposal was made by the President more than a year ago, shortly before he submitted the judiciary bill. That spectacular move completely distracted public attention from executive reorganization, and although committees of Congress and departmental officials have continued to work on it, only now will the matter come up for action in Congress.

The scheme covers a great many controversial questions. But almost certainly the most important is that involving the office of Comptroller General. To the layman this is a very dull subject of controversy, and it is certainly a most complicated and technical subject. Yet it involves what is perhaps one of the two or three most fundamental problems in the maintenance of responsible government. It involves the question of the control of executive officials by the people's representatives in Congress.

Power Of Congress Is Control Over Money

Put more exactly, the question is how Congress can make it certain that the President and the officials under him will in fact do what Congress intends that they should do when it enacts a law. For if the executive officials do not do what Congress intended, if the executive officials do something else that happens to seem more desirable to them, then the will of Congress is defeated. It has paid the piper and it has called the tune, but the piper has whistled some other tune than he likes better.

As a matter of long historical experience, and in every day practice, the principal way that Congress controls the Executive is by supplying the Executive with the money which he must have to do anything at all. By saying how much money the Executive may have and what he must spend it for, the people's representatives exercise their control over executive officials. It is their greatest power. By refusing to appropriate money they can shut off any activity of government that they do not like, and there is no power anywhere which can compel them to provide the money.

Hard To Determine Final Use Of Funds

But this power to control is not a reality if all that Congress does is to vote money earmarked for certain definite purposes. Congress must know that the money was actually spent for those purposes or its supposed control over the Executive is a mockery. Now, with the Executive spending some eight billions a year through some hundred and thirty departments, bureaus, commissions and what not, it is impossible for Congress to know whether its will is actually being carried out. In fact, Congress never finds out, except more or less by accident in particular cases, what happens to the money it has entrusted to the Executive.

The question is how Congress is to find out whether the Executive has actually done what Congress meant him to do. This question has troubled Congress for a long time, and shortly after the war there was set up the present office of Comptroller General. Congress thought it had answered the question. It created an official, appointed by the President, confirmed by the Senate, for a term of fifteen years and removable only by Congress. It was to be the business of the Comptroller to act as the watchdog of Congress by deciding in the name of Congress whether any expenditure was legal.

Though the intention was excellent, the result was not. Congress got nothing out of the Comptroller except the illusion that it had a watchdog on its own agent on what had really happened to its appropriations. All it has had was the meaningless knowledge that nothing had been spent which this one overworked and necessarily bewildered official had not approved.

Surely it must be clear that if Congress is to hold the Executive truly accountable, it must receive independent reports on what has actually been done with the money. There must, as the accountants say, be an audit made by an agent of Congress. We have no audit today. For since the Comptroller may decide in advance how the money is to be spent, his reports are simply reports approving the correctness of his own decisions. An audit to be any good at all must be made by some one who had nothing to do with the original decision. For if he had anything to do with it, he is already committed, and what he says has no value as an independent examination.

Now, unfortunately, the pending bills do not very clearly recognize the difference between the power to approve payments in advance and the power to audit them afterwards. These two functions are still somewhat confused though it would seem as if the present bills were at least headed definitely in the right direction, towards the establishment of a congressional audit. They ought if possible to be clarified and strengthened. For it seems very clear, from the experience of Britain, and from the best corporate practice in this country, that the only way to impose financial accountability is through a real audit, and the only way to get a real audit is to have it made by some one who has had nothing whatever to do with any decision to spend the money. Thus in a well-managed corporation the stockholders are furnished an audit, made not by the directors or by the officers but by an outside accountant.

If Congress is to hold the Executive accountable, it must do it not by a watchdog who pretends to approve all payments but really cannot begin to do that—it must do it by getting full reports of what has been done and these reports must be made by its own agent. Then Congress can call upon the Executive for explanations and know what it is talking about. The knowledge that every transaction is going to be reported to Congress and that any transaction may have to be explained to Congress is the best guarantee that could be devised to make the Executive responsible.

NEW JELLY CLEARS STUFFED-UP NOSE LIKE MAGIC

Contains Medications Prescribed by Big City Specialists. Carries Way Back into Nose for More Thorough Relief.

If you've got a mean head cold, or catarrh, and your nose feels all "stuffed up," don't waste your time with nose-sprays. Get real relief—quick and long-lasting—that the new Listerine Nose Jelly offers. Its basic medications are exactly those used by big city specialists.

Users say Listerine Nose Jelly mediates more thoroughly than drops, because it reaches further back in the nose and stays there longer, allowing the medicine a chance to work longer in the affected area. It mediates more thoroughly than oily lotions because it gets better contact with inflamed areas and swollen passages that keep pus, germs and mucus from being discharged.

Listerine Nose Jelly mixes and becomes a part of Nature's nasal secretions, which are watery in character. Therefore it spreads farther and gets wider contact, reducing the swelling, opening up the passages, relieving inflammation, and shooting fresh aromatics up in the nose to clear the head. CONCERNING SHOES

The present fashion of shoes was introduced into England in 1633. In the 9th and 10th centuries the greatest of European princes wore wooden shoes. In the reign of Richard II, shoes were of such absurd length as to require support by being tied to the knees with chains.

In 1463, Parliament took the matter in hand and passed an act forbidding shoes with spikes more than 2 inches in length being worn and manufactured.

FRICTION ON 41

It was fitting that Joseph A. Stransky, state highway commission engineer from Milwaukee, should tell a Fond du Lac group recently that superhighways through the Fox river valley are inevitable. It would also be fitting if groups in Oshkosh, DePere and Green Bay were to hear such remarks.

The four cities named are the bottlenecks along Highway 41, principal traffic artery in the valley. The process of routing Highway 41 away from them, as has been practically accomplished from south of Neenah to north of Kaukauna, has not yet been undertaken, although frequently discussed.

So long as these cities stand in the way of smooth progress along the valley, residents of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and Kaukauna cannot reap the benefits of the million dollars expended in their localities to keep Highway 41 out in the country. Motorists from other cities, however, gain the full benefit of the re-routing since, in a short time, it will be possible to drive from Green Bay to Oshkosh without once entering a single city. Formerly, there were four such friction points along the route.

Until the time comes when Highway 41 is completely shifted away from narrow, crowded streets, a Kaukauna driver headed toward Milwaukee must struggle through Oshkosh and Fond du Lac but misses Appleton, Menasha and Neenah. An Appleton driver going the same direction is able to avoid the twin cities whose residents, in turn, gain nothing by driving south. They can only utilize the new highway when going north.

In short, the benefit of work done in the superhighway area extending from northern Winnebago county through Outagamie county accrues almost entirely to areas where similar projects have not been undertaken.

Traditionally, there are supposed to be commercial and community objections to routing a main highway outside of city limits. This may have been a reasonable argument back in the days when automobiles stopped often and rarely went very far. It is certainly no argument today when the large majority of motorists en route through the valley generally have no reason to stop along the way and obviously have no right to add to the traffic problems of valley cities.

Yet, so far as Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, DePere and Green Bay are concerned, they have no other choice.

NO MORE READING?

Is there a conspiracy against reading? The committee in charge of the coming World's Fair in New York City announces that all buildings in a section will be painted the same color. The visitor then, finding himself surrounded with green buildings, or yellow buildings, or blue buildings, will know he is in the health or education or science section without having to read names on buildings or signs at gates.

Sinclair Lewis, who has just completed a lecturer's swing along the Main Streets of a number of cities between New York and Los Angeles, complains of the "slick devices" everywhere for preventing reading. He mentions the newspaper magazine, the movie, the radio, the automobile, the lecturer. They make it unnecessary, he says, even to spell out headlines. Reading books is about to become a lost art.

It all seems rather juvenile, though not so alarming as some folks find it. One of these days we'll all be so sick and tired of having our eyes confronted with nothing but pictures that we'll demand unillustrated books and will sit down to an orgy of reading words once more. In the meanwhile, the booksellers and the libraries still have a good many patrons.

BIG BUILDING

Sooner or later all this construction business will get out of the realm of talk and into action. Vast plans are cooking. The most striking one mentioned lately is that of a big life insurance company which wants to invest $100,000,000 in a housing project for rental purposes. If it does, some of the other insurance people may follow.

Bonds, apparently, are not what they used to be. Big money in the bank doesn't earn its keep. In apartment and office buildings, especially the former, provided the jobs are wisely planned and thrifflily built and managed, there should be 5 per cent return in prosperous years and 3 per cent in dull years.

Some of the federal housing projects have fozzled, but on the whole such experiments have probably been useful, suggesting to private enterprise a job that the latter should be taking over, and showing things to copy or avoid.

SLOW JUDGES

Congressmen who are still intent upon reforming the judiciary now seek to speed up judicial decisions by docking the pay of federal judges who have on hand undecided cases for ninety days or more.

Criticism which reflects the state of public opinion of any part of our extensive governmental system should be welcomed,—but minutely examined for flaws on all sides.

Wisconsin knows something of an attempted speed-up in its judicial work because it has tried several expedients and not with the degree of success promised.

We cannot have a fair ratio between jurists unless we make out for them parallel causes requiring equal length of time. One may draw a trial of a case involving long and extended accounts covering a period of years and which is crisscrossed with various problems demanding much time and thought for a just solution. Another may run through a covey of cases relatively simple and easy to decide. One jurist may have twenty cases a month to dispose of while another has but ten; one may have one hundred preliminary motions or decisions to make before trial and other but a small fraction of that quantity.

Moreover the mental apparatus of all men works at a different rate of speed and with varying consequences. We have men on the bench whom we might describe as brilliant. They foresee an argument before it is put and their minds with lightning rapidity are balancing equities in the developing case far in advance of its conclusion.

We have jurists, too, who move in a slower and more ponderous fashion. Sometimes they are guided by a conscience that forbids them from deciding matters until they have turned them over and over in their minds, and were they speeded up unduly the character of their work would suffer.

Although we must fight delays in justice and work steadily to improve our system and prod slow moving judges to as early decisions as possible it is not inappropriate in considering a question of this kind which involves so many human equations to ask congressmen why they have not made their own work swifter and more practical. And it is probable, too, to answer for them, that the delays in legislative business that sometimes annoy us are created or permitted that our system may not suffer suffocation through artificial means advanced noisily for the alleged purpose of efficiency.

SANE AND CRAZY CLOTHES

If Paris winter style shows really furnish an advance view of what the American woman will wear next summer, then we are in for a lot of thrillers.

Ladies will wear hatpins again, and hats weighed down with flowers or bows. There will be print crepe dresses with pictures of all sorts. One modiste went in for the circus. Gowns offered in that shop show tinsel embroideries and colored mirrors. Motifs of circus horses, acrobats, marshmallows and Chinese lanterns dominate the prints.

In another shop a "straw ink-well hat complete with quill pen" competes with chariot-wheel hats of lacquered straw and other novelties.

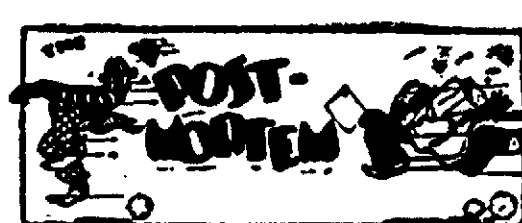

It sounds pretty dizzy, and observers on American streets may feel pretty dizzy when they see copies of these ventures over here. There need not be too much alarm, however, for experience in recent years has shown that American women are no longer slaves to Paris fashion designers. They take some of the eccentric things for variety and amusement, but mostly stand by the simple, comfortable styles that are "always good"—the tailored suit, the knitted dress, the short skirt for golf or housework.

THE "CON MAN'S" CODE

There need be little surprise at the behavior of Noble John Moore, the former confidence man who, appearing as the chief government witness at the trial of William J. Graham and James C. McKay, Reno gamblers and night-club operators, suddenly and inexplicably recanted the testimony he had given at the previous two trials against the same men. The trial, which is proceeding before Justice Willis Van Devanter and a jury in Federal court, involves a complicated story of swindling which need not be discussed here.

The wonder of it is that he was induced to testify against the defendants in the first place. Now that, for whatever reason he has disavowed his tale, we are reminded once again of the almost insurmountable difficulties which lie in the way of the prosecution of that extremely slippery type of swindler known as the "con man." It is the rarest thing in the world for a "con man" to turn against his own gang. For one thing, it would be dangerous; many confidence men are urbane and polished fellows, but among any such organization there always are a few who would be delighted to resort to violence. Again, the prosecution is almost always faced with the reluctance of the "sucker" to testify against the men who have fleeced him; this may be partly because of fear and partly because of the natural aversion to becoming known publicly as "the victim type." Nevertheless, there have been many instances of the successful prosecution of confidence men. Perhaps the most spectacular was carried out almost twenty years ago, when Colonel Philip S. Van Cise was district attorney of Denver—a city known at that time as "The Big Store" because it was the center of the operations of the nation's confidence men. Colonel Van Cise, after much trouble, effectively

So much publicity has been thrown upon the methods of confidence men that one might think that the racket would become extinct. But apparently not. Reports of such schemes come from such widely separated places as California and Florida. And now the government contends that wide-open Reno succeeded Denver as the nation's "Big Store." ITCHING

Far be it from me to deny the gratification one gets from scratching the place that itches. I've had the old fashioned itch. I've had a few furious bouts with orthoform erythema (before I discovered that contract with orthoform caused it). I've been foully attacked by a caterpillar. And most maddening of all, I've had ivy poisoning. Scratching is the sovereign remedy for any ephemeral itching, yet instinct may go wrong; the more you scratch any skin disease the worse it will grow.

One of the commonest forms of pruritus is bath pruritus, itching after a bath. The remedy for this is simple: Don't bathe. Just change your clothes and expose your body to the air. That's one way to keep clean—taking a daily air bath of half an hour or longer, as Ben Franklin did while writing in his room for an hour or two every morning. Were it not for our unnatural clothing, which interferes more or less with ventilation of the skin and oxidation of secretions, we'd be nearly as clean as the animals and birds, which are pretty clean, even without soap and water bathing.

Now don't be a snob. We'll take it for granted that you just can't do without a bath at least once in a while. We don't care how often you yallow in water. But if you itch too much you had better bathe as rarely as possible and the less soap you use the more comfortable your skin will be. Water, particularly hot water, removes considerable oil from the skin. Soapy water removes still more. If it were the general custom to apply some more skin oil immediately after every bath, people would suffer much less from skin irritations, especially in the winter months when the Sahara-like dryness of the heated indoor air dries out skin and mucous membranes as it does book bindings and furniture. A satisfactory Skin Oil has been described earlier. No oil or cream or cosmetic can quite serve the purpose of the natural sebum, the oil of a healthy skin. But any bland vegetable, nut, fruit or seed oil is better than nothing, to counteract the drying effect of bathing.

Make the bath just comfortably tepid, and as short as possible. Dry by blotting the water from the skin rather than with friction with a towel. If there is much itching apply a little of the following cream:

Lanolin, 2 drams; Boroglyceride, 1 dram; Theatrical cold cream made from white petrolatum, enough to make one ounce. This should be dispensed in collapsible tube. If itching is intense from two to four grains of methol may be incorporated in the cream.

A famous lotion for relief of itching and burning of the skin is Calamine Lotion, described in a recent article on burns and sunburn. It may be used for the purpose in such conditions as hives, erythema, eczema, sunburn, ivy poisoning, pruritus dermatitis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Quinine

Is the quinine tonic you suggested to guard against grip or flu harmful to one with a weak heart? (Mrs. G. H. E.)

Answer — No. Quinine is often used as a heart tonic. It is perfectly safe for any one to take two grains of quinine daily as a prophylactic against the flu. A dose of two grains of quinine alone or combined with two grains of sodium salicylate and one-half grain of caffeine, three times a day is safe and fairly efficient treatment for acute grip.

Your Birthday

"AQUARIUS"

If February 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 12:15 p. m.; from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a. m.; from 6:15 to 8:15 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m., until midnight.

If February 19 is your anniversary, you were born under the Zodiacal sign PISCES. Good natured and affectionate, Pisces people readily make friends. You ought to have a great deal of depth, for many born on this date attain intellectual attributes that help to develop them spiritually. You probably have great faith in human nature. Energetic, you seldom resort to half-way measures. Of a sociable nature, you love to entertain, and have the gift of being an ideal host. Personal pride makes you take a keen interest in your dress and appearance, and rather critical of the attire of other people.

You may have a great amount of intuition, and can quickly sense the reaction you have on those you meet for the first time. The Moonstone is your birthday's natural affinity, and indigo is the color you should affect. Friday should prove to be your luckiest day. Married and engaged couples, as well as sweethearts, will do well to remember that the flowers for those who celebrate this as their natal day are the tuberose and daffodil.

If a woman and February 19 is your birthday, your amiability ought to make you very dear to your family and friends. You should be able to face difficult situations with a smile, for your courage is apt to enable you to overcome any troublesome condition. You have no patience with procrastinators or lazy people, and probably become very irritated if things are left in a slipshod fashion. Water, especially the ocean, most likely fascinates you. As a musician, artist, designer, interior decorator, actress, author, educator or office executive your earnings are likely to be large, and your name should become well known. Your married life may be very satisfactory, and be the medium through which wealth will come to you.

The child born on February 19, is generally exceptionally well-mannered, obedient and truthful. In the game of life it should win many prizes, among which, most probably will be happiness and success.

If a man, and February 18, is your natal day, your ability should be recognized and fittingly rewarded. As a sales representative, advertising expert, architect, lawyer, druggist, doctor, writer, actor or politician you may win acclaim.

HE SAYS HE HAS THE ANSWER

Editor Post-Crescent—I have read the articles written by Mr. Hoping and am of the opinion that my thought concerning present conditions will be welcome.

If we discuss with becoming frankness the financial situation in the United States it becomes clear that the New Dealers are pulling in their horns in the face of the business slump. A period of buck-passing, to avoid "blame" for the conditions that set in the moment the "pump priming" of the Federal Government was curtailed, is now being experienced. In 1929 the financiers and the stock exchange were blamed for the results. Since then the New Deal, with its pump priming, the operation of the S. E. C., not to mention the C. I. O., have entered the picture. These facts are admitted and we are heading into a first class major depression (mis-called a "recession") and nobody wants to take the rap.

Many people are writing and talking but nowhere is there any indication that these people recognize the physical basis of the trouble. They do not know, neither do they give thought to the facts that there is a declining of birth rates, the long term trend toward the leveling off of production, together with the terrific impact of technological advances (meaning the installation of man displacing machinery) in the past few years, resulting in a decrease in man-hours per unit of production. These physical trends are not amenable to mental manipulation, and no "solution" that does not fit the physical facts can possibly succeed.

What is necessary is an engineered blueprint designed to fit all the physical components of the social mechanism on continental North America, plus an organization to operate, with this blueprint on a continental scale, as befits the nature of the task. It is already an established fact that the physical factors, as they exist, will wreck the price system, our competitive society as we know it today, in spite of all varieties of political and financial legerdemain. Check up for yourself and learn how technology (the Machine) is making man hours a declining quantity. Our power age is reducing the price system to an order of economic insanity and if the people living on this continent do not learn to align themselves with this mass power, "soon" it will result in chaos, which means the elimination of civilization on this continent.

The nature of the job to be done, right now, is such that there must be complete coordination between the production end and the distribution end of the vast machine, so

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Without public announcement, Senator Capper of Kansas evidently has given up hope of putting across his plan for uniform marriage and divorce laws this session.

The versatile Kansan, who knows more than one way of intriguing midwest sentiment, offered a constitutional amendment, and a bill designed to abolish gin marriages, six-weeks divorces and child weddings in one swift blow.

Many things have arisen to claim his attention, so that now it seems unlikely even hearings will be held on his legislation. Capper's principal interest continues to be agriculture and he has worked long and painstakingly on the farm bill in committee, in the senate and in conference.

Also he has become a commander of the troops battling for the vote for Washington's voteless 500,000 residents, and with all the local newspapers whooping it up for the campaign he is busy no end.

South Agin It

But the thing which perhaps was most effective in scuttling Capper's marital legislation was the anti-lynching filibuster. Not only was much time consumed which might have been given over to such issues as the marriage bill, but the southern senators picked out the marriage bill for incidental potshots as they worried through the weeks. Senator Ellender pictured it as likely to weaken southern marriage laws so there would be a wholesale commingling of the whites and negro races.

Senator Capper and the women's groups supporting his campaign never have contested it would be possible to enact uniform federal marriage and divorce laws without a constitutional amendment, but a bill has always been introduced right along with the amendment ever since the drive was inaugurated about 1923.

The bill contains many provisions which would irritate patrons of free and easy marriage and divorce. No longer would marrying New Yorkers be able to speed into Connecticut's Greenwich, for the bill provides a two-weeks waiting period after the license is granted. The license must be obtained in the county the woman lives in, the bill provides, but once the license is obtained a couple can be married in any county in the country. But they must decide on the county in advance so it can be written on the license.

Capper Still Hopeful

Parents must give consent for boys of 18 or girls of 16 to marry, the bill provides, and none may marry younger. Exceptions are provided where babies are involved.

For violations there is a penalty upon the couple, the license clerk or the parson, ranging from $100 to $500. Moreover, the license must list the names of all previous mates of either party and how the marriage was ended.

As grounds for divorce, the bill sets up cruelty, abandonment, insanity, conviction of an infamous crime or adultery of one of the parties. If both are guilty of adultery, the marriage must go right on. No divorce trial may be held within two months of the filing of the suit, and a year must elapse before the parties may remarry.

The bill is designed to make divorces or marriages in one state legal in all others, regardless of what supplementary local laws there are, and that is part of what annoys the southerners, most of whose states outlaw white-negro marriages, regardless of where they were performed.

Senator Capper expects that the activities of several women's clubs in support of the amendment and bill ultimately will get the legislation a hearing.

that decisions may be made quickly and in full agreement with the requirements of the consumer.

To deal with this problem, we vote for the first time assembled in the Legislature, and there and less argue erroneous "Pros and Cons" before getting the inevitable wrong answer. Will politics save the Price System? Will the Price System save itself? The answer is No. It can't be done. Politics and the Price System were the natural offspring of an age of scarcity, and belong to our ancestors.

For your benefit Mr. Hoping, and for the benefit of the Exchange Club, referring to a recent publication, the following is what we are attempting to live with: Mass production, facilities for mass distribution, but mass interference by politics and lack of purchasing power, mass consumers but unfortunately the result is mass prodole. What we can have is: Mass production, mass distribution (minus interference), mass consumption and mass leisure. To obtain this we will have to make friends of the machine and its enemies. We will as a people collectively, on this continent, have to understand what is meant when Technocracy states: "Political soft peddling will continue until the resultant instability will have exceeded the limits of social tolerance and then there will have to be installed a social mechanism competent to meet the needs of the people of this continent."

Marketing Quotas Part of Granary Plan, Expert Says

Don Anderson, State Economist, Gives Suggestions Regarding Program

While recognizing the merit of the plan for an ever-normal granary of food and feed grains, Don Anderson, University of Wisconsin economist, in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent, reminds state farmers that they will do well to give much thought to possible actions which may be taken independent of or through government to assure an ever-normal supply of things farmers would like and need to buy.

Anderson is convinced that fluctuations in the volumes of industrial production due to industry's inability to maintain production rather than to fluctuation in supplies of agricultural products have caused the ups and downs in farm prices.

The objective of the ever-normal granary as it applies to the cereal products of the farm, is to smooth out to a limited extent, the fluctuations in supplies of grain available from year to year. It is not proposed to store enough corn to care for extreme conditions such as resulted from the droughts of 1934 and 1936, according to Anderson.

In commenting upon the ever-normal granary project, Anderson expressed the opinion that marketing quotas are a part of the plan. Under certain conditions marketing quotas would be given each farmer in the corn belt, he explained, and the producer would not be permitted to market or feed more bushels than there were in his marketing quota. This part of the program, Anderson explained, would become effective only if the producers in the commercial corn areas of the corn belt by a referendum vote in the late summer or early fall, had demonstrated by a two-thirds majority that they wanted surplus control.

The economist was insistent that emphasis on the ever-normal granary should not cause farmers to overlook the fact that it is the fluctuations in the volume of industrial production that have caused the ups and downs in farm prices.

Rations Important In Improving Pig Crop, Expert Says

Animals Should be Given Plenty of Exercise and Given Good Quarters

"Good feeds, the right amount of feed, plenty of exercise and comfortable quarters."

This is the formula for producing better quality pigs for the 1938 crop that James Lacey, extension animal husbandman of the college of agriculture recommends in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agent.

Using the farm raised feed supply as the foundation, Lacey would add that it is necessary to make the following ration to feed the sows, corn 85 pounds, tankage 5 pounds, and chopped alfalfa or clover hay 10 pounds. In this ration corn furnishes the digestible nutrients in large amounts, while the starch or carbohydrate in the corn is balanced by the tankage, which in turn is the source of excellent available animal protein. Chopped alfalfa or clover hay are sources of vitamins and are also feeds that furnish minerals in plentiful amounts.

If the corn supply is short, a combination of oats and barley may be substituted. Small amounts of linseed meal, wheat middlings and skim milk or buttermilk are excellent additions to the sow's ration. Alfalfa or clover hay can be fed very effectively and more economically in a self-feeder rack. It may be of interest also to swine breeders to know that there is a direct relationship between the rapidity of gain in weight in the sows and the number of pigs farrowed per litter the following spring. It has been found that sows that are in only fair condition at breeding time will, in general, prove to be better producers than will sows carrying better than an average finish.

Although these winter days may seem far from farrowing time, hog breeders will find that the care given brood sows this winter will have a helpful effect on the spring's pig crop. In fact, pig money in 1938 will depend almost entirely on the effort that is put into the management and care of the brood sow during these winter days, Lacey stated.

State Changes Quarantine on Alfalfa Weevil

Department Makes Revision to Include New Infested Areas

Revision of the quarantine set up by the state department of agriculture and markets to prevent the introduction of the alfalfa weevil into Wisconsin was made last week so as to include new weevil-infested areas in Wyoming, California and South Dakota, according to information received by R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

The quarantine regulates the movement of hay and straw originating in areas of 10 western states where the weevil has established itself. States so menaced are Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, and Wyoming.

Importation into Wisconsin of alfalfa hay as such, or other hay or any kind of cereal straw which has been grown or stored in infested districts is prohibited. The prohibition also extends to their use as packing material or for any other purpose.

According to E. L. Chambers, entomologist of the department, the alfalfa weevil was introduced in the vicinity of Salt Lake City in 1904, and has since caused untold losses to alfalfa in regions where it has spread.

As evidence that enforced quarantine retard the spread of injurious insect pests and plant diseases, Chambers cited the fact that the alfalfa weevil has been confined to within a radius of approximately 500 miles of Salt Lake City since its introduction at that point from Europe 34 years ago.

March 31 Set as State Dairy Day

Date Also Marks Opening Of Wisconsin Dairy-men's Convention

March 31, the opening day of the annual convention of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association, has been proclaimed by Governor Philip LaFollette as "Third Wisconsin Dairy Day," according to information received by R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

This year's state-wide meeting of dairymen will be held at Eau Claire. The convention will last two days and a program replete with entertainment is being planned.

In proclaiming Dairy day the governor said: "Dairying is the chief agricultural occupation in nearly every Wisconsin county. More than 11,500,000 pounds of milk are produced annually on our farms, and fully one-half of the gross farm income of Wisconsin is accounted for by dairying. We lead all other states in milk production. In the number of healthy dairy cattle our state also ranks first in the nation."

County Farmers are Warned to Guard Against Corn Borer

Although no bad infestations have been reported, the European corn borer has been found in many of the lakeshore counties, according to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent. Specimens have been found on 60 farms in 10 counties. The clean up methods have kept this insect pretty much under control as it was first discovered in the state in 1931.

Specimens have been found in the three counties nearest Outagamie; namely, Winnebago, Calumet and Brown. The nearest farm on which borers were found is the Schwartzbauer Bros., route 1, Menasha. Specimens were discovered

County Has Little Trouble From New Disease Found Among Horses

During the last year Wisconsin and Minnesota suffered large losses in horses due to the new disease known as equine encephalomyelitis, but Outagamie county has been fortunate as the sickness is confined to a great extent to the western part of the state, according to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

The disease was brought into Wisconsin and Minnesota from the west by shipments of horses. Some of the western Wisconsin counties had heavy losses, not only in horses shipped in from the west but in the local horses to which the disease spread.

Many counties, at the present time, in the Dakotas and Montana are under quarantine and are restricted from sending shipments of horses into Wisconsin. It seems that there is, however, considerable damage even from some of the counties in the west that show very little active infection.

"We don't know when we will have an outbreak of it which may cause thousands of dollars loss," Swanson said. "Farmers should be very reluctant about buying western horses due to this disease problem. During the last few years a great many horses have been raised in Wisconsin—Outagamie county producing its share. This spring there are going to be a number of local horses offered for sale and it would appear from the conditions mentioned that farmers in need of a horse or two would be taking much less chance by buying locally. The quality of stallions used here in Outagamie county has been very high and the colts resulting should make the type of farm horse that we desire on our farms."

On two farms at Hilbert and two in Chilton in Calumet county while the Brown county specimens were discovered on two farms south of DePere. Although no specimens have been discovered yet in Outagamie, it is highly possible that there will be corn borers in this area. Farmers should therefore be on the lookout for their damage and should immediately bring specimens of the borers to the county agent's office for identification, Swanson said.

Copies of a folder on the corn borer are available which will help farmers in making the identification. There are many types of insects such as the corn earworm and corn stalk borer that resemble to an extent the corn borer. They are, however, relatively harmless compared to the European corn borer.

Advices Dairymen To Get Dam Record When Buying Bulls

Six cow testing associations are operating in Outagamie county at the present time, and there is a general tendency among dairymen to increase associations all over the state, according to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

More and more importance is being attached to records during the last few years and few bulls are sold in the county by purebred breeders without a record on the dams, he states. Every dairymen buying a bull should demand a record on the dam so that he will have some idea of what he can expect of the offspring of the bull he is purchasing, Swanson said.

Milk Prices Past Season High Mark

January Shows Sharp Drop In Average Price Per Hundred-Weight

Prices received for milk sold by Wisconsin farmers reached the highest level in November and December 1937 since the winter season of 1929-30, but a sharp drop occurred in January of this year and the average price for the state was about $1.64 per hundred-weight, according to the crop reporting service in a letter to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

Milk production declines in late summer and prices rise, usually reaching the peak in November, December, or January. The high point this winter was reached in November when reports from crop correspondents indicated that the average price for milk sold by Wisconsin farmers was $1.80 per hundred pounds, and a decline of two cents was reported for December.

Milk production during the winter months this year has varied. For January, crop correspondents indicate that there has been some increase as compared with last year when feed supplies were low and prices of dairy rations were exceptionally high. With more abundant feed supplies this winter and relatively high prices received for milk, Wisconsin farmers appear to be a little more optimistic, and there is some indication of increasing their dairy herds. Milk cow prices are above those of a year ago, in line with generally higher cattle prices than prevailed last year.

State Cash Farm Income Increases During Last Year

7 Per Cent Gain Shown in 1937 Over 1936, Report Reveals

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Total cash farm income in Wisconsin showed a gain of 7 per cent in 1937 over 1936, including government payments which augmented the receipts in the state by 2 per cent, according to a report issued by the department of agriculture.

Livestock and livestock products receipts in Wisconsin for 1937 totaled $279,355,000 as compared with $265,805,000 for 1936. These receipts have climbed steadily from $169,483,000 in 1934, and $221,935,000 in 1935.

From crops alone in Wisconsin 1937 receipts totaled $34,397,000, showing a slight gain over the 1936 total of $34,385,000. Previous annual crop receipts were $24,675,000 in 1934, and $21,417,000 in 1935, as shown by the department of commerce figures.

Income Is Less
Total annual receipts in Wisconsin from the sale of principal farm products—crops and livestock combined—amounted to $313,752,000 in 1937, as compared with $300,191,000 in 1936. Last year's increase is considerably less than that shown in 1936 over receipts during 1935 of $242,352,000; and receipts during 1934 of $194,158,000.

However, Wisconsin's increase resulted chiefly from receipts from the sale of livestock and livestock products; whereas the department of agriculture points out that receipts from grain, chiefly wheat, were responsible for the gain in several states in the East North Central section.

For the country as a whole the increase from livestock and livestock products was only 2 per cent above 1936, and was due chiefly to higher prices received for dairy products and larger marketings of poultry and eggs, the department of agriculture points out.

Recommends Sale of Wisconsin Cheese in Valentine Packages

Resumption of the idea of selling cheese in Valentine packages was recommended to the Wisconsin cheese industry today by Charles L. Hill, chairman of the state department of agriculture and markets, in a letter to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

Ample evidence of the merit in marketing cheese in gift packages was obtained last year, he said, when the Oshkosh Winnebago and Booster club launched the idea, and during the holiday season, when many cheesemakers merchandised their product in Christmas packages at the suggestion of the department. Cheese wrapped in attractive packages is welcomed by persons residing in other states and makes an appropriate gift from the leading dairy state of America, he pointed out.

Last year, he explained, eloquent testimonials on the quality of Wisconsin cheese were received from governors, presidents, and prominent citizens of the United States, Canada, and countries of Central America as a result of a cheese valentine project carried out by the Winnebago club, Governor Philip F. LaFollette, and the department.

Kaws Ready for Conference Tilt With New London

Squad Completes Preparations With Light Free Throw Drill

Kaukauna—A lone offensive drill last night for Coach Paul E. Little's cagers and a little free throwing this afternoon meant the end of preparations for the tilt with New London tonight. A conference game with Neenah on March 4 is the only other home game here this season.

A dance, sponsored by the high school athletic council, will be held immediately after the game in the gymnasium. Olin G. Dryer, principal, announced yesterday. The high school orchestra will play.

Little's starting lineup probably will find Peterson and Vanevenhoven at forwards, Alger at center and Lambie and McCarty at guards. It won't be long, however, before Don Busch gets into the game at a forward post.

Kaukauna will present four men on the floor who have each scored consistently throughout the season. A spread of only five points exists between Vanevenhoven and Alger with 60 each and Lambie with 55. Bill Peterson has 53.

Statistics released yesterday by Little show that the team has made 97 of 551 tries at the basket this year for a percentage of 17. In the matter of free throws they have sunk 64 of 152 for a percentage of 42, and have scored altogether 258 points compared to 280 for their opponents.

Jerusalem Is Described at Knights' Pre-Lenten Party

A DESCRIPTION of Jerusalem and Damascus as they are today was given by the Rev. George Schemmer, pastor of St. Francis Xavier cathedral, who told of being permitted to offer mass in the sepulchre where Christ was buried, while on a recent visit to the Holy Land, in an address at the annual pre-lenten party of Father Fitzmaurice council, Knights of Columbus, Thursday night at St. Joseph's hall.

Father Schemmer reviewed the Via Dolorosa or Way of the Cross as he saw it on his visit, stating the scene of the crucifixion in three quarters of a mile. He said that holy relics of the time of Christ are still being preserved in a Franciscan convent near Damascus. The speaker described the scene of the last four stations of the cross and stressed their proximity to each other, pointing out that only a few steps separate the scene of the last fall of Jesus and the burial place. The sepulchre is now a shrine for public devotion, he said.

The Rev. Cyprian Abler, O.M. Cap., pastor of St. Joseph's church, spoke briefly of the recent endorsement given to the Spanish loyalists in the civil war, and outlined a policy for all Christians to follow in urging LaFollette to retract his statement and change his stand.

R. W. Mahony who acted as toastmaster at the dinner last night told of the public retreats to be sponsored by Knights of Columbus at Monte Alverno Retreat House during Lent, the first to be March 4 to 6 with Hugo Pankratz as chairman of reservations and the second to be March 12 to 14 with Joseph Weber in charge. Francis T. Rooney, lecturer of the council, acknowledged the work of the various committees and presented small favors to William Geenen and Henry Otto for attendance. Carl Fose won the special prize last night.

About 150 persons attended the party the dinner being served by Christian Mothers society of St. Joseph's church. Preceding Father Schemmer's talk, Ed Schaller, a member of Nicollet council of Menasha, gave a group of readings.

Cards were played after the program, prizes at auction bridge going to Mrs. Henry Otto and Francis Bloomer, at contract to Mrs. William Geenen and Mike Kettenhofen and at schafkopf to L. Vanpelt, Mrs. Bissing, Gustave Keller and Al Utschig.

Adjourns Hearing On Continental Receivership Plea

Attorney Says Directors as Group Never Declared
$25,000 Dividend

Superior—(7)—Perry A. Stetteland, Madison attorney, testified at a hearing before Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone yesterday that directors of Continental Service company as a body never declared a $25,000 dividend which a receiver petition charges was distributed last October to only a portion of the stockholders.

Following his testimony Judge Stone adjourned until Feb. 22 further hearings on a petition by some stockholders to force the company into receivership.

The company, organized under the direction of officials of B. E. Buckman and Company, bankrupt Madison investment firm, is opposing the action.

Claim 20 pct. Distribution
The receivership petition charges a $25,000 dividend was declared last October but that only 20 per cent of the stockholders holding a total of 89,188 shares of common stock, had received checks totaling $5,189.05, while holders of 285,333 shares received no returns.

Counsel for the stockholders said that when the Continental company was reorganized several months ago B. E. Buckman and Stetteland, retiring officers, helped elect the new officers following the resignations of L. C. George and E. C. Holt, present vice president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the Buckman firm.

Edwin C. Crofoot of Bay City, Texas, president of the Continental company, testified that at the time he was elected to the office he owned one share of stock and since that time he had purchased 75 additional shares through the Marine National bank of Milwaukee.

UTILITY CASE
Superior—(7)—The Wisconsin Public Service commission adjourned its hearing into the Superior utility acquisition case late yesterday, indicating the inquiry probably would be resumed at Madison about March 1 to receive testimony from B. E. Buckman, president of a bankrupt Madison investment firm. Buckman, subpoenaed to attend the hearing, is out of the state and is not expected to return until Feb. 27 or 28.

Earlier in the day Ralph Hoyt, counsel for John Green—a Superior taxpayer who is contesting the $4,625,000 purchase price fixed by the commission for the property of the Superior Water, Light and Power company—offered testimony intended to show there was a connection between B. E. Buckman and Company and the utility deal.

Refers to Dinner
Hoyt read a letter which L. C. George, Buckman vice president, admitted having written to Buckman. George told the hearing yesterday he thought the letter concerned the utility case and made reference through the term, "Mr. X," to William Dinneen, former commissioner secretary.

Prior to adjournment the commission heard testimony from C. W. McNear, of Chicago, who had written into the record a prepared

Royalton Congregational Church Was Organized at Critical Period in 1863

Royalton—The period between Feb. 17 and March 4 marks the diamond anniversary of the Congregational church of this place. It includes the time from the first movement of founding the church to the official completion of its organization.

The first meeting was held on a cold mid-winter day 75 years ago at the pioneer home of Sylvester B. Lytle, some distance from the new settlement of North Royalton, as it was then called.

The church was founded during the most critical period of a Civil war, just after President Lincoln's Emancipation proclamation.

The initial steps for the application for the organization of a church having been taken, an official council from the national and state bodies of Congregational churches was called and met at Royalton March 4, 1863, at which time the completion of the organization took place and the church was officially launched.

The Rev. F. B. Doe of Appleton, was moderator of the council; the Rev. William E. Merriman, Green Bay, scribe, and the right hand of fellowship was given by the Rev. Mr. White of Ohio.

Fourteen charter members were admitted by the council, nine of these by letters from other Congregational churches, seven of them from Lisbon, St. Lawrence county, New York. They were Sylvester B. Lytle, Samuel Lytle, Edward Fletcher, Mrs. Agnes Lytle, Mrs. Harriet Fletcher, Miss Mary M. Lytle and Miss Harriet Lytle. One was from the Congregational church of Fond du Lac, Mrs. Sarah Walker Moore; one from the Congregational church of New London, Mrs. Chester Combs, and five by confession of faith and baptism—Thomas Owen, John Dunning, Mrs. Mebela Dunning, Mrs. S. R. Owen and Mrs. A. L. Drissen.

The first sacrament of the Lord's Supper of the newly-founded church was held that day following the reception of members.

The church was built in 1866 and remodeled in 1902 at which time a memorial window was placed in the church in memory of the late Rev. Morgan L. Eastman, who was pastor of the church for 22 years.

Twenty-one ministers have served the church during its history: The Rev. S. P. Sablin, was the first, The Rev. A. W. Sweeney, who resigned in January to accept the pastorate of a church at Amery, Wis., was here eight years. At present the church is without a pastor.

The present official board of the church is composed of the following persons: A. E. Sutton, Fred B. Larson, A. W. Ritchie, Mrs. Reuben Fletcher, Mrs. Elizabeth Ritchie, Henry Heinbruch, Carroll Ritchie, Mrs. Elsie Humes and Mrs. A. W. Ritchie.

Library Has Books for Photographers, Candid Camera Bugs, Beginners

Camera enthusiasts, beginners, camera-wise photographers and even candid camera bugs, can learn more about their particular interest by visiting the Appleton Public library this week or next week.

A photography exhibit, arranged by Miss Leone Steidl, assistant librarian, will be on display in the lobby. Pictures used in the display were furnished by the Appleton Camera club. Included in the exhibit will be information on the library's photography collection, which is reputed to be the finest in the state.

One of the newer books for beginners is "You and Your Camera," by Eleanor King and Wellmer Pessels. Quite different from other beginner's books, it is very simple and frankly plays up the success stories of high school boys and bank clerks who have made money by selling extraordinary shots. It emphasizes artistic rather than technical aspects of photography.

Pictures in Color
Camera-wise photographers may like to read "Modern Photography," edited by C. G. Holme. The book is an annual reproducing in color and monochrome the work of 14 countries, including the United States. It gives the bare technical data about pictures contained in the book.

Two of the more useful books of a comprehensive nature are "New Ways in Photography," by Jacob Deschlin, and "Photography Today," by D. A. Spencer. The first presents the newest and best methods for the amateur with normal equipment. It keeps in view low cost and emphasizes the fun of photography. Spencer's book is for all ages of camera enthusiasts. All the processes are covered with particular attention to correct exposure.

A new type of camera which has recently found great favor and is still enticing new recruits is the candid camera, the kind that creeps up on a person unaware and catches the yawn, the sneeze or almost anything. The subject is treated in "Modern Miniature Cameras," by Robert Fanstone, and is available at the library. The book tells about the various types, films and focusing for candid cameras.

Books on Lighting
Another book, also available, that recommends equipment easily within reach of a modest purse is "Pictorial Lighting," by William Mortensen. Equipment, materials, processes all are carefully explained as applied to a new approach to lighting problems.

Here are some of the books available at the library: beginners, "A Beginner's Guide to Photography," by Robert Goodsell; "Photography Made Easy," by R. C. Bayley; "Complete Photographer," by S. C. Johnson; "Outdoor Photography," by J. A. Dimock. Pictorial, "American Annual of Photography," by Frank R. Fraprie; "Pictorial Photography for Amateurs," by Goodsell; "U. S. Camera, 1936-37."

Candid, "Miniature Photography From One Amateur to Another," by R. L. Simon; "Home Portraiture with the Miniature Camera," by H. G. Russell.

Commercial, "Making Amateur Photography Pay," by A. J. Ezickson; "News Photography," by Jack

Price: "Press Photography," by James A. Kinkaid; "Free Lance Journalism with a Camera," by R. H. Mellison.

Special Processes
Special processes, "How to Choose and Use a Lens," by F. R. Fraprie; "The Secret of Exposure," by F. R. Fraprie; "Enlarging and Enlargers of Today," by William Alexander; "Photographic Enlarging," by F. J. Jordan; "Natural Color Film, What It is and How to Use It," by C. A. Nelson; "Perfect Negatives and How to Make Them," by B. T. J. Glover; "Projection Control," by William Mortensen; "Practical Photo-Lithography," by C. M. Willy; "Pictorial Composition in Photography," by Arthur Hammond.

Telephone Company
Builds Up Fund to Protect Subscribers

Madison—(7)—The Wisconsin Telephone company, since April 29, 1936, has paid $1,642,047.93 into a Dane county circuit fund to reimburse its local exchange subscribers in the event it loses the statewide rate reduction case now under appeal.

The company has been paying into the fund each month the difference between the rates now being charged and the lower rates ordered by the public service commission. The court required maintenance of this fund.

The total reduction ordered by the commission amounts to about $800,000 a year.

Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppman is now writing his decision on the legality of the commission's action and is expected to complete it in another week. The case probably will go to the supreme court whichever way he decides.

Also involved is an appeal from an additional reduction of approximately $1,000,000 ordered by the commission during its lengthy investigation of the utility and prior to the time its permanent order was issued.

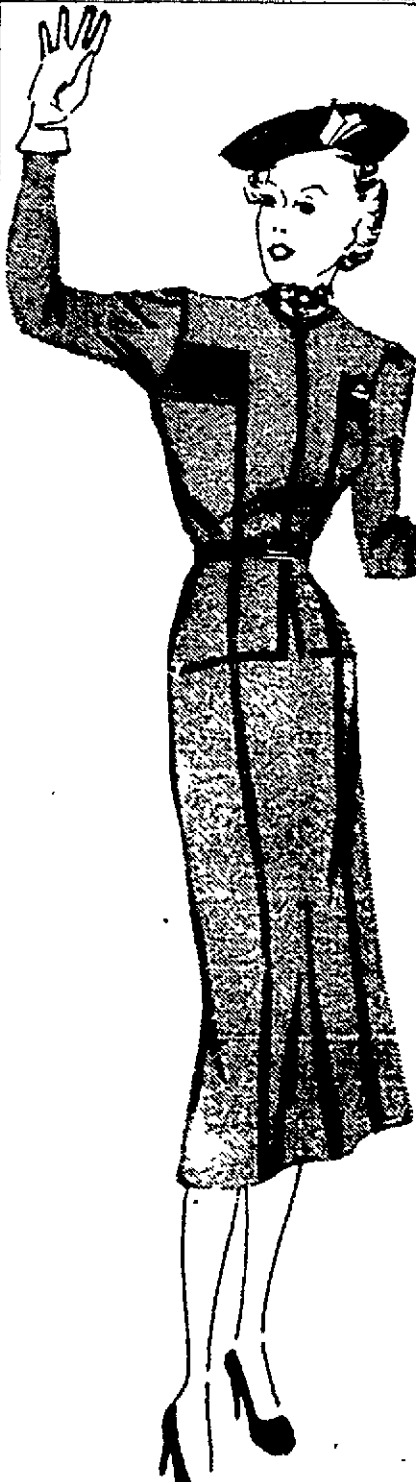

Stole Almost Enough
To Organize Orchestra

New York—(7)—A couple violins and a piano and Carl Nappi could have formed an orchestra.

Officers arrested Nappi yesterday as he was about to pawn a bassoon and a saxophone. Detectives John Coleman, Harry Fitzsimmons and Thomas Walsh questioned him.

Then they announced Nappi had confessed other thefts. The loot: Seven saxophones, three piano accordions, three bass viols, two trumpets, one clarinet.

Suggestions of Council Would be Opposed by Labor

Recommendations Involve Basic Changes in Wagner Act, Lawrence States

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—For a long time, the business advisory council, known as the "Roper Council," has been making recommendations on national policy to President Roosevelt, but has not been making them public, presumably to avoid controversy. But now that a new procedure has been adopted and the council has revealed its recent recommendations on labor legislation, the proposals can be examined critically.

The first impression—and it is always so with broad statements about labor relations—is that the council has produced a document of fairness alike to employer and employee. Close inspection of the published statements, however, will reveal that union labor would never accept amendments of the kind suggested and, after all, whether business men like it or not, labor, and not President Roosevelt, will dictate whether there are going to be any basic changes in the Wagner law.

The most conspicuous recommendation—and it follows many of the same kind made by business organizations in the past—is that employees shall be free in self-organization and collective bargaining from interference, restraint or coercion from any source.

Appears Plausible
This appears plausible enough till its true meaning is examined. Intimidation by workmen of other workmen is a matter that comes under the powers of state and city governments. The federal government into the police business is to add a power to the central government which the business men themselves, on reflection, would hardly favor. The words "from any source" are too broad.

Physical coercion is something with which the Wagner law does not attempt to deal. What it does concern itself with is economic coercion, and this is exercised either by collective action of labor organizations through picketing, boycotts, strikes, etc., or by employers when, by their right to hire or fire, they punish employees seeking to persuade their fellow workers to join unions.

To make the Wagner act absolutely fair to both employers and employees, it could be amended, of course, to restrain certain forms of economic coercion, such as strikes called without a vote of the membership or strikes called when there have not been exhausted the prescribed forms or processes of conciliation and negotiation. Something of the same kind is already written into federal law with respect to railroad labor in what is known as the National Mediation act.

Services of Board
When the council suggests that "any party to a labor dispute" shall be able to invoke the services of the board, this touches on a problem which has many ramifications. If the purpose is merely to give the employer a right to find out officially through an election what the majority of his employees wish in the way of a bargaining agent, the plan would hardly be objectionable from labor sources. But if it is intended to give the employer a right to enjoin by the action the operations of labor unions or to restrain in any way the efforts at self-organization undertaken even by a minority of the employees, especially in the absence of any clear majority, then the labor unions which hold the balance of power in congress today would never consent to such an amendment.

The council offered another recommendation.
"Neither the act nor its administration will favor any particular form of any bona fide labor organization."

Looks Fair
This looks fair enough, but what does it really mean? Does it clear the air any? At present, the Wagner law does not permit the boards to favor any particular form of labor organization, merely stipulating that, for the purpose of holding elections, the board shall determine what the "appropriate unit for collective bargaining" shall be, whether a whole plant, special departments or crafts or other groups within a big industrial operation.

Certainly, the Wagner law today requires the board to find out what is and what is not a "bona fide labor organization" and presumably this discretionary or fact-finding power would continue to be lodged in the board if the council's recommendations were adopted. To ascertain what is a "bona fide" labor organization, the board now takes testimony and evidence bearing on whether an employer seeks by indirect means to influence the action of any of his employees, whether the employer favors one group of employees as against another, whether the company pays the expenses of a union of its own choosing rather than a union really wanted by a majority of the workers in a given unit.

Draws Distinction
The supreme court of the United States, in various decisions, has drawn a distinction between bona fide labor organizations and those which are the tools or instruments of employer action. The Wagner law provides for business and industry generally in this respect, a means of ascertaining whether an organization is "bona fide" just as the National Mediation act has for years determined the same point with respect to labor organizations on the nation's transportation systems.

There is much, of course, to be said on the point of stabilizing labor relations by law and preventing unnecessary interruptions to production through the abuse of the right to strike. But any such amendments to existing law will come with greater ease and will be compelled by public opinion and accepted by labor groups themselves only when business men, in their proposals to amend the National Labor Relations act, do not make suggestions that could, if embodied in actual amendments to the law, be used to frustrate the basic purposes of the act. These purposes are to guarantee and assure workmen of absolutely no interference or restraint against them by employers when workers seek to choose their own form of organization or bargaining agents.

Don Lambau to Enroll

At Fordham University

Green Bay — (P) — Don Lambau, son of E. L. (Curly) Lambau, coach of the Green Bay Packers of the National Professional Football league, will enroll next fall at Fordham university. Young Lambau played in the backfield for Green Bay East High school for three years, under Tom Heerders, former Notre Dame captain. At Fordham Lambau will be under another ex-Irish star, Jimmy Crowley, who once was a pupil of Coach Lambau at a Green Bay High school.

Revolta Given Edge in $5,000 Crescent City Golf Tournament

NEW ORLEANS, La. — (P) — Money player John Revolta, his pockets jingling with souvenirs from California's "Gold Coast," started out today the split-haired favorite in the $5,000 Crescent City open golf tournament. Revolta, leading money winner along the winter golf trail that started on the Pacific coast, went on a tour of the windswept city park course and stepped off the eighteenth green with a new course record—67, five under par. His amazing card included eight birdies, five on the first nine, three bogies and seven pars. Four more putts for birdies rimmed cups and hung on the edge.

Bunched in the field of 143 professionals and amateurs were many of the big names of pro golf. Sammy Snead, the West Virginia bomber, drove in late in the afternoon from the Pacific coast and finished his entry. One burst of rain, however, would cause him to move homeward, he grinned. Dull clouds hung over the course. Dapper Ky Laffoon of Chicago put up the storm warning with a fancy round in the pro-amateur event which enabled him to win the event with his partner, Walker, cupper Freddie Haas of New Orleans. Laffoon beat par by two strokes and played flawlessly in the recording of a 65 best ball with Haas.

Record Crowd to See Purdue Tilt

Wisconsin Quint Defeated
By Boilermakers in Previous Game

Madison — (P) — Purdue's Boilermakers, aspiring to top ranking in the Big Ten, and Wisconsin's Badgers, determined to avenge an earlier defeat, are expected to give basketball fans a "thrill" performance at the university field house tomorrow night.

The ticket office estimated more than 11,000 persons — a record crowd for the season — will attend. As an added attraction, the Wisconsin and Northwestern wrestling teams will clash immediately after the game.

Purdue, because of an unexpected loss to Ohio State last week, is trailing Northwestern in conference standings and will be trying hard to hold on in the hope the Wildcats will drop a game or two. The Badgers were defeated 40-34 decision at La Fayette in January, but only after leading the Boilermakers through most of the second half.

Wildcat Center On Way to Big 10 'Iron Man' Record

Jake Nagode Has Played
Every Minute of Seven
Conference Tilts

CHICAGO — (P) — The new basketball rules have started Jake Nagode, center for Northwestern's Big Ten leaders, on the way to an "iron man" record.

The 6-foot, 2-inch star who went to Northwestern from Waukegan, Ill., has played every minute of the Wildcats' seven conference games—due partly to the fact that centers don't have to jump as much as under the old rule. Nagode was just a part-time performer under the former regulations, but hasn't had to have any help since the championship season started and has shown improvement with every game.

Nagode, however, has no monopoly on endurance honors among the Wildcats. Due to ineligibility and illness which have deprived Northwestern of two regulars, Reggie Davis and Jim Currie, Coach Arthur (Dutch) Lomborg has used only eight men in conference battles this season. Against Wisconsin Monday, only six men, Nagode and guards Al Vance and Bob Voights who played the whole game, and Jean Smith, Fred Tronkle and Mike McMichael, who shared the forward positions, were employed.

The Wildcats will seek their seventh victory in eight Big Ten games at Evanston against Indiana, the main event of Saturday night's full schedule. In the other games Purdue faces Wisconsin at Madison, Ohio State goes to Illinois, Minnesota plays at Michigan, and Chicago tackles Iowa at Iowa City.

PLAY AT BELOIT
Beloit — (P) — Beloit college will meet Lake Forest in a non-conference basketball game here tonight, seeking to avenge an earlier 38-45 reversal. The only other quintet to defeat Beloit this season in 13 games has been De Pauw. Coach Louis E. Means' team leads the Midwest conference with seven victories, no losses.

Fox River, Wires Are Winners in Y Cage Playoff

Will Meet Next Thursday Evening for the League Title

Y-CITY LEAGUE PLAYOFF
Fox River 30, Y.M.C.A. 25.
Wire Works 41, Town Taxis 33.

FOX RIVER Paper company cagers and the Wire Works went into the championship playoff finals of the Y. M. C. A. City Basketball league last evening when they won their games. Fox River defeated the Y.M.C.A. in a struggle, 30 to 25, while the Wires downed the Taxis by a 41 to 33 score.

Next Thursday evening the Fox River and the Wire Works will clash at 8:45 in the championship game. At 7:45 the Y. M. C. A. and Taxis will play for third place. On Monday evening, Feb. 28, there will be a basketball dinner at the Y with the players receiving awards, an all-star team will be selected by Norman LaMar, Dan Stenberg, Jr. C. C. Bailey and Ray Risch, and will meet the league champions in an exhibition.

Last night's Y-Fox River contest was a thriller and for a time it appeared the perfect league record of the Fox River was near its end. In the final minute, however, Fox River won by its class and pulled ahead to win 30 to 25.

Fox River started fast and soon had the Y trailing by a 15 to 2 count and then 15 to 2 at the quarter. In the second period the Papermakers slowed down but held a 17 to 6 lead. Neither team did much shooting during the stanza.

Y Ties The Score
In the third quarter Stan Palchik started hitting the hoop for the Y and began to make things miserable for Fox River. The Papermakers held a 23 to 14 edge at the quarter but their lead was being sliced at every turn. In the fourth quarter the Y kept pecking away at the hoop and with P. Palchik and Reif using their height to advantage and controlling the rebound, the Y tied the score at 23 with four minutes to play.

From then on it was a dog fight with both teams trying to control the ball and with the taller Y squad missing a lot of shots. Eddie Verbrick broke the tie with a left-handed shot from the side for Fox River but Palchik tied it up again. Kelly then tossed a free throw and Verbrick and Kelly got field goals and Fox River won.

Wire Works jumped to a 10 to 6 lead over the Town Taxis in the opening quarter. In the second period the Wires counted seven points before the Taxis got into the game but the latter rallied just before the half and trailed only 22 to 16 when the period closed.

"Red" Ehke sparked the Taxis in the third quarter as they scored ten points while the Slattery combination kept the Wires in the game and the score was 28 to 26 when the clubs halted for a minute. The final quarter saw the score knotted several times but the Wires pulled out and capped by an 8-point margin.

Vice-president Bernard J. Neumann, Two Rivers, will preside at the initial conference as Arthur Schuetz, Manitowoc, who headed the league for two seasons, was taken by death last November.

According to informal reports from around the Northern State circuit, the moguls do not think the time "ripe" to consider "daily" baseball and it is the prevailing

P. Waner Ready to Talk Contract

"Big Poison" Also Will Attend Wedding of Close Friend

Pittsburgh — (P) — Paul Glee Waner, "best man" among National league hitters three times, was in Pittsburgh today to bat out a double.

He donned his finest togs this morning to be best man at a radio wedding of his close friend, Evangelist Jack Munyon, and this afternoon had a date to discuss contract matters with President William E. Benswanger of the Pirates.

One of six Pittsburgh players still unsigned, Waner was invited here by Benswanger after long distance negotiations between Pittsburgh and Sarasota, Fla., proved non-productive.

Thus the Pirate prey took no chances of a "misunderstanding" such as kept his star outfielder out of uniform last year until the club reached Dallas, Tex., on its way back from the San Bernardino, Calif., training camp.

"Almost an annual holdout for a dozen years, 'big poison's' case approached serious proportions a year ago because he contended Benswanger made a promise by telephone which he did not keep in a proffered contract. The prey replied another man had listened to the conversation at an extension phone and could vouch no such promise was made.

Metcalf Sees Two New Indoor Track Records

NEW MIDDLETON — Will Glenn Cunningham break his own indoor mile record? Will Ben Johnson clip another tenth of a second or so off the 60-yard dash standard? Ralph Metcalf thinks so.

Ralph, who is better than a raw hand at the old sport of foot-racing, makes the prediction with the unelms of pay day. Glenn and Ben pace a few heats with pop time in the New York A. C. games Saturday night, the top performers of a glittering field.

"That Cunningham," says Metcalf with awe, "he's always in command. At Providence Tuesday night he knew where he was every minute. And from the times he's been turning in, he is running better than ever. He's pretty close to his peak right now. That 4:08.4 indoor mile record may go Saturday night."

Ralph, who is coaching at Xavier University in New Orleans, turned to watch Ben Johnson as the crack Negro sprinter came thundering down Columbia's board track.

"Here's a fellow who's just starting to run. Long ago as 1935 he was trimming us. But he wasn't as good as he is now. He's smoother, easier."

The New York A. C. meet has attracted a field that is big and good.

Cunningham faces Archie San Romani, Gene Venzke and Blaine Rideout. Johnson numbers Perrin Walker and Allan Tolmich among his opposition.

Don Lash will devote all his energy to the two-mile race. He has a formidable field with him, including Norman Bright, who has done 9:03.7 this year, Joe McCluskey, Floyd Lochner and George de George.

Expect All-Time Entry Record for State Pin Tourny at Twin Cities

BY CLARENCE H. JONEN
(Secretary, Wisconsin State Bowling Association)

SWINGING along on the swiftly rolling wave of bowling popularity the thirty-sixth annual Wisconsin State Bowling Association tournament at Neenah-Menasha appears certain to achieve a new all-time entry record.

With March 1 set as the registration deadline, a total of 1,250 reservations are already on file. Only 100 more teams are needed to surpass the high entry peak reached in last year's show in Milwaukee.

A heavy contributor to the enrollment figure is the tournament area itself. Latest report has it that Neenah and Menasha have attained a 360 mark in the team campaign. In what remains of the time for further registration, it is likely 400 or more lineups will be listed. It is 20 years since Neenah-Menasha put on the state meet and nothing would more highly please George Gilbert, Ad Hennig, Joe Muench, Clarence Hendy, Wallie Pierce and the rest of the bowling leaders than to hang up an entry record. Certainly the cities are leaving nothing undone to reach the new high figure.

ed them to take a new interest in proceedings. Wes Morris' work at Appletton is sensational and his efforts seemed to perk up the whole ball team. If he can click a few of his tries at the hoop and the other boys do as well as last week it'll take the final basket of the game to decide the outcome.

Appletton's starting lineup probably will have Powers at center, Beech and Bowers at the forwards and Bob Bailey and Morris at the guards.

Green Bay East invades Sheboygan for tonight's game and there's a lot of interest in the battle. The Chairs are noted for being tough on their home floor and they have a good team. East was stopped last week after a long string of wins and whether it'll be able to come back remains to be seen. It's hard to believe one defeat would stop the Red Devils but such things have happened before.

St. John Ready For Menasha

Catholic Conference Leaders Clash Tonight at Little Chute

Little Chute — St. John Catholic High school basketball team will get its final chance to overhaul Menasha St. Mary in the Valley Catholic conference race this evening when the teams meet in St. John gymnasium. The Menashans are in first place with six wins and no defeats and the Chutes in second place with five wins and one defeat.

In the first meeting of the teams St. Mary gave St. John a bad drubbing but since then the Dutchmen have been coming along fast and have run up almost the same scores at Menasha over other conference clubs. Jim Koehn, Connie Vanden Heuvel and Woody McCabe have taken over places vacated by veterans and have added spirit to the squad.

The Chutes feel that if "Hard-luck" Weyenberg, center and star defensive player, ever sets a break in the scoring column, St. John troubles will be all over. He has the nearest one-handed pivot shot in the conference but the ball always seems to roll out of the hoop.

Hammen, who has been crashing through with points in the tight spots and playing great defensive ball at guard, is certain to start with Roger Koehn's position. A question, Koehn can play either forward or guard. If Koehn is used at forward McCabe will be at guard with Mel Van Asten taking care of the other forward. The latter is a southpaw.

There will be a preliminary game at 7 o'clock between St. John and St. Mary freshmen.

At 8 o'clock the high school teams will clash and at 9 o'clock Company D of Appleton will meet the Legion in an Outagamie County league contest. The Guards are led by Johnny Bauer, chunky forward, and Norman Kneip, veteran guard. The Legion will use its regular lineup for it still hopes to win the second round title and thereby annex the league championship.

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION

BY L. H. KINGSTON

RENN BAY — As I was saying last week, it wasn't so many years ago that a good many sturdy citizens of Wisconsin looked upon fly fishing for trout as both high-hat and too difficult. Most everybody fished with bait and made no effort to hide the fact that they looked upon a fly fisherman as a city sissy or just an ordinary darned fool.

Today you come upon many a weather beaten son of the soil — individuals who haven't shaved lately — each fishing for trout right along with his fully outfitted city brothers. He is not equipped with English waders, a collapsible landing net, automatic reel, double tapered line and De Luxe rod but, nevertheless, he is fly fishing.

The transition came rapidly when it was found that the family could no longer be fed with trout for a couple of days after every fishing trip. As trout became scarcer the trip could no longer be justified by the meat brought home in the creel; so your dyed-in-the-wool angler had to find himself other reasons for going fishing. Fly fishing and more thrills per fish was the answer.

The fly fisherman has the satisfaction of knowing that he does very little harm to the fish. A small sized fish which must be released. The worm fisherman, on the other hand, rarely releases a fish that does not die.

So there you have the two fundamental reasons why the fly fisherman is in a higher caste than the angler who uses bait, he has more fun and he does less damage to the future trout supply. For that reason I say, "Lay off the worms."

St. John Boxers to Meet Neenah Squad in Little Chute Gym

Little Chute — St. John High school boxers will clash with the Neenah High school at 8 o'clock Monday evening at St. John gymnasium. The Dutchmen will make their debut before the home folks in their new yellow and blue trunks and robes bearing their insignia.

Bob Siebers, who went into the finals of the Golden Gloves tourney at Green Bay, will not be on the card Monday evening because he is scheduled to fight at Green Bay Tuesday evening.

Bill Jurgas Only Cub Left in Holdout Ranks

Chicago — Chicago's Cubs had only one contract problem, star shortstop Bill Jurgas, to solve today.

Jurgas was left all alone when outfielder Frank DeMaree notified the club yesterday that the terms of his contract were satisfactory. The Cubs anticipate no great difficulty should Jurgas, who has decided to stay, be asked to return to the club. Jurgas' reported asking price was $20,000. Jurgas has written that he will bring his unsigned paper to Chicago next week to negotiate.

Five members of the Chicago White Sox, pitchers Ted Lyons and Sugar Cain, catcher Luke Sewell, first baseman Zeke Bonura and outfielder Rip Radcliff, are still potential holdouts.

St. Augustine, Fla. — (AP) — The handicappers figured young Burleigh Jacobs of Wauwatosa, Wis., would go out in the early rounds of the championship of golf club championships tournament but he still was swinging away in the semi-finals today.

Opposing him in the round of four was Richard Chapman of Greenwich, Frank Strafaci of Great Neck, N. Y., only remaining player who was conceded a chance to win in pre-tournament computations. He was pitted against William Holt of Syracuse, N. Y.

Jacobs downed Bobby Walker of Jacksonville, 4 and 3, yesterday while Chapman ousted Robert Lansell of Hackensack, N. J. 3 and 1.

Strafaci defeated Ike Merrill of Daytona Beach, 4 and 3, and Holt won over J. L. Collins of Canton, Mass., by the same margin.

Predicts Chandler Will be Next President of Coaches

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — Present day baseball salaries make even hard-boiled Burtleigh Grimes shudder. . . On the train the other night he recalled that back in 1918 he led the National league pitchers with 25 victories and received exactly $1,980 for the job. . . Here's one to taste in your hat: Bill Chandler of Marquette will be the next president of the National Baseball Coaches' association. . . Interesting pictures from Puerto Rico show Harry Jeffre and Sixto Escobar, who fight for the bantamweight title Sunday night, eating at the same training table. . . What would General Phelan say if that happened in New York? . . .

Page Dr. Daffoe: There are four pairs of twins on the Wisconsin girls' basketball team. . . A letter with only a picture of Tommy Farr and the letters "U. S. A.", mailed from London, arrived at the New York Hippodrome yesterday. . . Dope from the south says Clyde Castelman may not be able to pitch an inning for the Giants this year, which will be just too bad. . . As many of you have suspected Joe and Mike Jacobs, crooked cronies for years, are not just "like the any more." Reason: The Galento fade-out.

Adamick, Thomas Battle Tonight

No One Seems to Know Purpose or Will Guess Outcome

New York — (AP) — At a late hour today, nobody had been found willing to hazard a guess on the purpose, not to mention the outcome, of tonight's 10-round duel between Jimmy Adamick, the kid from Detroit, and bouncing Harry Thomas.

The whole affair had everybody so puzzled that many intended to go and see for themselves, the expectation being that around $25,000 worth would turn up at Madison Square Garden. The fact that old Doc Kearns, the bogy man of boxing, was going to be in Adamick's corner undoubtedly add to the popular interest.

Adamick, through no particular fault of his own, finds himself in a tough spot for a youngster. Kearns, the most articulate of all fight managers, said that Adamick was "better than Dempsey." He wasn't of course, talking in his best superlatives on that occasion. The winner has been "signed" to give Joe Louis a tune-up in April. The only attraction in a Thomas-Louis classic, however, would be to see whether Joe could knock Harry down more times than Schmeling did, which was eight by unofficial count.

SPEAKING OF NEW 1938 MODELS-

the 1938 Post-Crescent is the BEST Newspaper We Have Ever Produced

Perhaps you haven't realized that the 1938 Post-Crescent is far and away the finest newspaper we have ever turned out because the changes have been gradual. But, gradual or not, the changes HAVE arrived, and you need only scan a copy of the Post-Crescent of a few years ago to realize what has taken place.

To begin with, the Post-Crescent's competent news staff is now the largest this newspaper has employed since it first came into existence. The Post-Crescent maintains more full-time staff representatives in neighboring cities than in any previous year.

Complete art, photographic and engraving departments provide pictorial news equalled only by metropolitan newspapers. Our state, national and international news coverage is the most thorough possible. Our nationally-known writers are tops in their fields. Our cartoons and feature departments are at a new peak.

Naturally, every last one of these improvements has meant increased expense. In fact, they make the 1938 Post-Crescent the most expensive newspaper we have ever produced. Possibly we could give you less and "get away with it," but such a move would, we feel, be contrary to the best interests of our readers and certainly not in keeping with the policy we have maintained since we first started to serve the citizens of this area.

We hope you like the 1938 Post-Crescent. We're PROUD of it!

Homemakers Club Holds Historic Costume Party

New London — Historical figures became a reality for a group of New London High school girls last night as the Washington High Homemakers club held a historic costume party in the home economics department at the high school.

Girls came to the party robed in a variety of costumes. Among the most attractive and popular were the figures of Romeo and Juliet, Martha Washington, Captain Kidd, Mae West, Queen of Hearts, gypsies, fortune tellers and girls of the early 1800's. Some were dressed as little girls with dolls.

Entertainment was provided by having the girls describe the making of their costume and in playing games and contests. Lorraine Pibbnow and Jane Huebner won prizes.

City Zoning Board Will Hear Appeal

Will Act on Application For Right to Build 1-Story Structure

New London — A hearing by the city zoning board of appeals on the application of Archie Babcock for a building permit will be held at the city hall council chambers at 7:30 Wednesday evening. It was announced yesterday by Andrew Luck, chairman of the board.

A permit for the construction of a 1-story building east of the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks and north of County Trunk Highway 5 east of the city was denied by Building Inspector Victor Thomas because the site is located in the heavy industrial district under the city zoning ordinance.

The inspector has no jurisdiction in a case involving the erection of one type of building in a different district, according to Thomas. The decision rests with the board of appeals. The proposed building is estimated to cost about $200.

The case is the second to come before the board under the new ordinance. Members of the board are Andrew Luck, chairman, Francis Werner, Walter Spiering, Fred Morack and John Viel.

Volleyball Team Loses to Waupun

Drops Five Games in Fox River Valley League Match

New London — New London's city recreation volleyball team lost five games to Waupun in a Fox River Valley league game at the Washington High school gym last night.

The local beginners played hard against the experienced visitors who have lost only to Appleton in the loop so far. Giving up the first games at 15-8, 15-3 and 15-9, the Wolf River squad hung on as both sides tired and lost the last two games by scores of 15-11 and 15-10.

The younger Waupun team scored heavily at first on perfect set-ups and hard spiking.

Monday night the New London team will travel to Oshkosh to make up a postponed league game and next Thursday evening Appleton will play here.

Players in action last night were Ray Matka, Melvin Wolfroth, Walter Stewart, Vern Blondey, Dick Brown, James Lockyear, D. N. Stacy, W. T. Maxted and R. M. Shortell, director.

The visiting team consisted of Jack Brown, Walter Whitcomb, Earl Mastrecht, John Landaal, Earl Irish, Ed Zimmerman, Roy Witt and Roscoe Smith, manager.

YOUR Income Tax

DEDUCTION FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

Charitable contributions and gifts made by an individual are deductible within limitations provided by the revenue act. The organization to which the gift is made must meet several tests. The corporation, trust, community chest, fund, or foundation must be operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals; and if a substantial part of its activities is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, it fails to pass the tests. No part of the organization's income may inure to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.

Contributions made to a missionary fund, church building fund, and for the benefit of other activities of the church are deductible. Few rents, assessments, and dues paid to churches are regarded as contributions. Gifts to a corporation or association organized or devoted to the advancement of learning are deductible.

Gifts to an individual are not deductible, but if made to a charitable organization, as defined by the revenue act, may be deducted even though the organization distributes funds among the individual beneficiaries.

Contributions made by the United States, any state or territory or political subdivision thereof, such as a city or town, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes, are deductible; for example, a gift of real estate to a city to be used perpetually as a public park is deductible. Also allowable are contributions to the special fund for vocational rehabilitation, to posts or organizations of war veterans and their auxiliaries in the United States, and to lodges, if used for religious, scientific, educational, literary, or charitable purposes.

In general, the deduction is limited to 15 per cent of the net income, exclusive of the contributions. Corporate contributions are deductible when made to or for the use of a domestic corporation, domestic trust, or domestic community chest, fund, or foundation which meets the same tests as those made for recipients of individual contributions, but in the case of contributions of gifts to a trust, chest, fund, or foundation, only if the contributions or gifts are to be used within the United States. Deduction of corporate contributions is limited to 5 per cent of the net income, exclusive of the contributions.

Now is not too soon to plan a good foundation for your baby's future health and welfare.

Milk plus the Vitamin D extracted from cod liver oil is a valuable nutritional addition to both prenatal and child diets.

Every quart contains, without change of taste, an added 400 U.S.P. units of Vitamin D—the Vitamin D equivalent of 1 1/4 teaspoonfuls of the new minimum standard U.S.P. Cod Liver Oil.

This milk and every claim we make for it has been accepted by the Committee on Foods of the A.M.A.

Council Approves Current Rate of Pay for Officials

Aldermen Pass Salary Ordinance; Reject Insurance Bids

Menasha—For the second successive year the city council voted no essential change in city salaries for the ensuing year at the city hall in an adjourned meeting Thursday evening. The only change made this year was to put the salaries of firemen and policemen on an equal basis.

Annual salaries for next year as stated in the ordinance will be mayor, $475; aldermen, both holdover and newly elected, $175; city clerk, $247.5; city treasurer, $2,100; bookkeeper, $1,200; city attorney, $1,140; street superintendent, $1,920; city sealer of weights and measures, $240; city engineer, $2,100; city health officer, $1,200; city physician, $1,200.

Fire chief, $1,800; assistant fire chief, $1,600; five firemen at $1,620; police chief, $1,800; assistant chief, $1,680; seven policemen at $1,620 and five policemen at $1,410. A fire captain will receive $120 while four firemen will receive $110. Extra help for both departments will receive 50 cents an hour.

Three bridge tenders at the Mill street bridge will receive $50 per month each during the navigation season. Assessors receive $5 per day as will members of the board of review. Election officials receive $5.50 per day.

Wants Full-Time Mayor Alderman Clement Newcomb spoke on the advantages of a full time city engineer and full time mayor before the salary ordinance was adopted. He mentioned that many of the records of the city sewer system are being carried in the heads of the engineer and street superintendent. The sewer system, the sewage disposal plant, the water and light department, all branches of the city government, have full time men Newcomb said, but at the head of all departments there is only a part time man.

The council settled the matter of purchase of a four-wheel drive truck and snow plow temporarily at least when Alderman C. J. Oberweiser moved to reject all bids to advertise in September. The truck then will be included in the 1933 budget. George Weisgerber protested that such a procedure would not be fair to those who had bid in good faith while Newcomb said that the truck was a necessity and payment would come from next year's budget whether payment was made now or in September. Alderman Weisgerber, Zeininger and Newcomb voted against rejecting the bids.

Bids Rejected All bids for fleet insurance were also turned down by the Council and a motion to readvertise for bids returnable March 1 was passed. Alderman George Stilt said that the finance committee felt that there were some discrepancies in the policies offered and that the advertisement for bids had not been specific enough. Detailed specifications listing every automobile and the amount of protection desired will be prepared for the next. A motion to grant each of the insurance salesmen present 10 minutes to discuss insurance failed.

The council took over half an hour to go through the necessary parliamentary steps to grant Ralph Schneider a permit to operate a beer depot in the Fourth ward. Schneider made his application in September. The application required amendment of the zoning ordinance from residential to light manufacturing classification. The planning commission approved that application but the board of public works voted against it after a public hearing.

Earl Sauter introduced a motion asking reconsideration of the matter last night. The motion passed with Alderman Oberweiser, Stilt and Newcomb voting no.

Three Vote No Alderman Philip Melchalekiewicz then moved to reject the board of public works report. His motion was followed by one to amend the zoning ordinance and that by a third granting a license to Schneider. All three passed with Oberweiser, Newcomb and Stilt voting no. Stilt voted to grant the license to Schneider but objected to any action which would lead to further alteration of the city zones.

A letter from R. M. Heckner and J. H. Stommel, city assessors, advising preparation of records and equipment before the adoption of a full time assessor, was read and placed on file.

Northrup and Friedland offered to sell the city a used truck for $900. The council voted to instruct the board of education to send walks at the schools. At some of the schools street department workers have been doing the sanding.

FINED $2 AND COSTS Menasha—James Schyler, 38, route 2, Kaukauna, was fined $2 and costs in justice court this morning by Justice of the Peace Ray J. Fink when the defendant pleaded guilty of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Schyler was arrested by Menasha police early this morning and lodged in the jail. He paid his fine.

News items, copy or orders for advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. This number also may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening for delivery of papers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

Carrick to Succeed Vernon Gruper as Park Superintendent

Menasha—Kenneth E. Carrick, 631 Tayco street, a former member of the board of education, will succeed Vernon C. Gruper as superintendent of parks and recreation on March 7, the park board announced. Mr. Gruper, who has served as superintendent for several years, offered his resignation to the commission effective Jan. 1. He has continued to act as superintendent until the appointment of a successor and will assist until March 1.

Heads of Sewage Plants Organize Fox Valley Group

George Martin, Green Bay, Named Secretary of Sanitation Body

Menasha—A Fox River valley section of the Wisconsin Conference of Sewage Works Operators was formed Thursday afternoon at the Twin Cities sewage disposal plant. George Martin, Green Bay, was elected secretary while the chairman for each session will be the superintendent of the plant where the meeting is held.

Meetings will be held the third Thursday of each month, with the next meeting scheduled for March 17 at Oshkosh. The meetings will revolve from city to city. The group of plant superintendents inspected the Twin Cities plant and held a round table discussion on the operation of sewage disposal plants.

The discussion was led by E. J. Beatty, Madison, who discussed the state board of health control over sewage disposal plants.

Plant heads voted to send delegates to the Central States Sewage Works association convention in September. The delegates will be instructed to seek the 1939 convention for Menasha.

Postpone Annual Derby at Oshkosh

Icy Roads Hampered Practice for Dog Race Event

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh—Icy roads caused the postponement today of the annual dog derby to Feb. 26 but Clarence J. Poese, chairman for the junior chamber of commerce, stated it would not be delayed further.

Since the premier announcement, he said, entries have been pouring in and Oshkosh kids have been racing their sled dogs. Eskimo "muffs" up and down the byways in an effort to train them for the race. It was principally due to the postponement was ordered, Poese said.

Icy roads have made practice almost impossible.

As the annual race is run by the junior chamber of commerce in cooperation with Winnabagoland, Inc., invitations have been sent to surrounding cities to also run their elimination contests on Feb. 26.

The finals will be run later in Oshkosh.

Flocks of Pheasants Feed From Hoppers Near Neenah

Neenah—Flocks of pheasants, some of them numbering as high as 20 by actual count, have been observed during the last month feeding at hoppers which have been placed in woods in the vicinity of Neenah by members of the Neenah High School Conservation club, Armin Gerhardt, club advisor, reported today.

With the layer of ice currently covering the wooded areas, preventing the pheasants from obtaining food, the "club's project of building and placing the hoppers has certainly turned out to be worthwhile," Gerhardt said.

The club has 14 hoppers distributed in the vicinity of Neenah, and so far this winter about 1,200 pounds of feed, some of which has been furnished by the boys themselves and some by the state conservation department, has been used.

One of the problems overcome by the young conservationists in feeding pheasants is the lack of grit which the birds need to grind their food. Without grit the birds will starve despite the fact that they may obtain plenty of feed. "The students have found that by putting sand in the hoppers the birds flourish."

Gerhardt reported that the inclement weather has not only driven pheasants to the hoppers, but the boys have seen rabbits, squirrels and prairie chickens feeding at the hoppers. Because of the hoppers, few birds have been found dead this winter, while in former years large numbers of pheasants died because of the lack of food.

Members of the club who are feeding the birds are Gordon Dobberke, James Armstrong, Orin and Boynton Schultz, Harold and Sheldon Klutz, John Palmer, Willis Clark, Norman Sauer, Morris Blockgett, William Dobbe, Lester Stephenson, George Wilcox and Leslie Smith.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY BY ALAN LEMAY

SYNOPSIS: Tropical Suman-tang island is seething with a Dyak revolt against the hated Malays. James Clyde, master of the gun-running Lunkang, and trader to the Malays, is blamed by Rajah Mantusen and imprisoned. But it is Christine Forrester, a beautiful young English girl, who is behind the war, completing a plan of her dead father. Clyde miraculously escapes, and a Malay attack is eminent. He sends me (Paul Thorne, his nephew) aboard the Avon to protect Christine. "I can imagine a woman loving a man like that," she says.

Chapter 23
Darkness to Dawn
Christine was lying full length in a long chair, her chin tucked down upon her shoulder. Even the afterglow of moonlight was gone now, but the bay of Balingong was not in darkness. The dusty light of the low-hung stars was over everything, so that I could see well enough that she was asleep; and I was glad Heaven knows she must have needed rest by now.

It occurred to me then with a very real disappointment that among the many things which would be left unfinished in my life was the better understanding of Christine Forrester. Whatever way you looked at her she remained a phenomenon. I had once thought that I understood her people and her traditions. When I had gathered that she was of British colonial background, out of India and Burma, and latterly Singapore, I was able to visualize pretty definitely the people surroundings of her early life. But instead of explaining her to me, these things now made her harder for me to understand.

I knew the look of the British bungalows inhabited by English administrators, as I had seen them at Bombay, Calcutta, and Rangoon. The broad low roofs of these bungalows, with wide shady porches on all sides, were a grudging compromise between what was British and what was a practical concession to the heat. White picket fences enclosed them, and the space within each fence was like the ghost of an English garden, no less because it was called a compound here.

Within the houses the furniture was likely to be rattan, and there were mats on the floors instead of carpet. But the orderly arrangement, a little stiff, somehow managed to be very British too. The nursemaids with their children were perhaps Indo-Chinese amahs, and in the rooms punkahs flapped, operated by a half-naked brown boy in a turban who sat outside tuser and imprisoned. But the master dressed for dinner in the most comfortable clothes ever devised in any climate, and drank tea which must first be shipped to England to be properly labeled, and then brought back.

These backgrounds, or rather these British characteristics, partly explained even Anthony Forrester. It was very like a Britisher to proceed calmly and stubbornly about what he conceived to be his business, entirely ignoring the most extraordinary environments, whatever danger he might be in.

And this girl, by her own account, had been close enough to her father's plans to carry them out, now that he was dead. I could picture Christine as a solemn-eyed child, listening to strange jungle tales brought by Anthony Forrester whenever he came back to Singapore or Calcutta or London to find his children growing up. It partly explained in her a certain competence, like that of a man, which I resented.

Someone To Dream About
But there was something very pitiful and appealing about Christine now as she lay asleep. There wasn't any pride left in the set of her head, nor any impatience in the dark blur of her mouth. She was just a girl with open hands resting helpless in her lap, her knees drawn up under the smoke-grey silk of the Chinese robe she wore. She wasn't any longer Anthony Forrester's daughter, troublesome and stubborn in a place where she didn't belong; she wasn't a scornful young woman who knew 40 names for an elephant. She was something a man might dream about, thinking of peace and gentleness.

"I wish you wouldn't stand there and stare at me," she said. I will swear that she had not moved nor opened her eyes. "It's like breathing down a person's neck."

I moved away; and after that there was nothing to do for a long time but wait.

At daybreak Christine disappeared below, and the Avon's Malays began to sluice down the deck. A new, clean odor came over Balingong bay from the jungle, in

Lincoln Debate Still Remembered at Siwash

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Galesburg, Ill.—This is founders' week at Knox college, fondly known as Old Siwash and as the typical American fresh-water school. That may mean nothing to you, but it is hot stuff at Siwash, and they usually import a couple of speakers to sound off at the big dinner which is the climax of the celebration.

This time they brought in Mr. Emanuel Hertz, of New York, who has authored another book on the apparently inexhaustible subject of Abraham Lincoln. They cannot claim Lincoln as an alumnus, because he never had much book-learning—a trait in common which has made many a professional ignoramus in public life swell with homely pride—but they do claim a sort of lien on him, because he once debated with Stephen A. Douglas on the slavery question from a scaffold opening off one of the ground-floor windows of the building known as old main.

That was the first time that Lincoln defined slavery as a moral issue, but his address is as well remembered for the fact that when Douglas referred to Lincoln as a man who had once sold whisky the rail-splitter retorted that Douglas, who was something of a rum-pot, had been his best customer. That slew them.

They have a room full of furniture and other articles which Mr. Lincoln is said to have owned or touched or looked at, and although there are few persons now living who can claim to have shaken his hand—and most of them probably are unrecognizable old liars—there are others who take solemn pride in claiming to have shaken a hand that shook the hand of the Great Emancipator. Old Siwash alumni have a way of lowering their voices when they speak of Lincoln.

A shoe which could be credibly or even wishfully certified as having been worn by him would be carefully shellacked or gilded and placed on the mantel shelf in the museum, and even a piece of lint off his coat would be placed under glass for the edification of the students.

There's Contrast Between Old Siwash And Chicago

It may be said, however, that the students have a fairly stout education, resistance in this particular. Your correspondent, not knowing, casually asked two little co-eds how came Lincoln and Douglas to be debating before the voters that way in a day when the election of senators was a prerogative of the statesmen of the legislature, includ-

fish normal would regard all that as going on. No good can come of picking at the young ones' souls and experience has proved to generations of Siwash graduates that the way of life is to learn lessons out of books, marry, have children, work, succeed, if possible (and with none of your funny definitions of success) then pass away.

"Pass away" is the germ that is generally used.

His Common Trait

Is Weakness On Griddle

Mr. Hutchins is plagued by a reputation for precocity. He is 38 years old now, but he has been president of Chicago for 10 years. And, like Willie Hoppe in billiards and Bobby Jones in golf, continues to be thought of as a boy wonder long after his first long pants. He has the stylish grace and poise of a thoroughbred and much resembles in appearance, manner and speech the only stage actor of recent years who has been able to swoon the dolls of whatever age—Mr. Alfred Lunt.

Mr. Carter Davidson, the president of Siwash, on the other hand, is only 33, but a grave young man in a new job and of the type to which life obviously is earnest and real, a meat-and-potatoes educator in a meat-and-potatoes environment. But this is no way to avoid the contrast and must be stopped, lest both get sore, if they are not already, and long-winded your correspondent to death at the city gate.

One trait or failing the two schools have in common—their weakness in football.

Siwash, up to a few years ago, had lost 27 consecutive games, and in the last season of that dreary span did not score a point. The water ideas and collegiate customs and their old buildings to which tradition clings in lieu of ivy, and the University of Chicago, only two hours but many years away, one way or another, is inescapable but must be resisted. It required a whole series of pieces in the Saturday Evening Post and one of those continued—among the leather-bellied ads analysis in Fortune to tell what Robert Hutchins is up to at Chicago.

Whatever it is, he seems to have a big thing there, but the sort of parents who send their young to Siwash or Slippery Rock or Spear-

Hollywood—Unreel parade:

There's at least one movie company convinced that spelling is important. . . . It had a set filled with extras and painted signs. . . . One of the signs read "Artie Circle" and they shot for three days before some literate gentleman happened along to change it to "Artie." They had to re-shoot at a cost of $30,000.

If Paulette Goddard plays Scarlett O'Hara, Selznick's search for an "unknown" will end about the way most such quests end. Paulette is an obscure little girl who has been kept skillfully in the public eye about four years, her only major film appearance the lead in an obscure little picture called "Modern Times" with some unknown comedian whose name I can't remember—a l i t h o u g h there've been reports that she married him. . . . However, Selznick did pick an unknown for "Tom Sawyer," which even the score.

Monocle In Kentucky

Some wear monocles through choice—Director Fritz Lang is one—but others have monocles forced on them. . . . Claude Allister came to Hollywood in '29, at the start of sound, and couldn't get into a studio. . . . "If you're an Englishman, where's your monocle?" officials demanded. . . . So Allister bought a special model, with little roughened edges to keep it from slipping—and hasn't been out of work since. . . . He wears it currently in "Kentucky Moonshine."

On the same musical set was concrete evidence that Marjorie

Weaver has "arrived." . . . David Butler, directing, called her from her dressing room for a scene. . . . "Just a minute until I fix my lip line," she responded. . . . Quick as that, three make-up experts descended on her, with alarums and excursions. . . . She didn't have a chance to lift a lipstick. . . . And one make-upper was delegated to stand by at all times.

Stop the presses: Priscilla Lane is fond of wild flowers. Paul Hurst's feet in "No Time to Marry" are not his own. . . . Hurst plays a cop, but his feet are not flat and his arches are unbroken. . . . The movies are not tradition-upsetters. . . . When they needed a close-up of the policeman's feet, they hired a flat-footed extra to "foot double."

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Philadelphia—Cause of death—confinement in bed—10. Patients—all over 65 years of age. These figures come from the Journal of the American Medical Association, in a report by L. B.

Laplace, M. D., and J. T. Nicholson, M. D., of Philadelphia. The title of their report was: "Prolonged recumbency as a contributory cause of death in old persons."

Their conclusion, however, was that in 10 cases being in bed was the real cause. The fact that elderly persons are likely to die if they stay in bed too long—usually several months—is an old medical story. The Philadelphia physicians in these 10 cases sought a more exact explanation. They found that long lying down, because it curtails a person's movements, resulted in congestion of blood in the capillaries. That, in turn, decreased circulation in the large blood vessels. As a result, the blood failed to carry enough oxygen to the tissues and this caused permanent damage to the capillaries. After this, circulation of the blood began to fall, and death was the result.

I WARN YOU! - BETTER NOT STAY IN BED TOO LONG!

In "A New World of Music"

First came Ragtime . . . then Jazz . . . Symphonie Jazz . . .

Swing . . . and now comes

to echo its way into the corners of the earth and give new meaning to the words "Modern Music."

WHISPERING RHYTHMS is a startling departure from the usual orchestral instrumentation. For the first time in many years an entirely new combination of instruments is used, one that permits

a wide variety of musical color. To attain a perfection never before known in dance music.
